Burglars And Policemen Stage Terrific Gun Duel With Fatal Results

(International News Service)

WARREN, O., July 18.—Police searched the Ohio hills today for two bandits who escaped following a gun battle in which one bandit was shot and killed, and two policemen were wounded.

The wounded policemen are Sergeant John Heinlein and Patrolman Arthur Lundy. Heinlein is near death in the Warren hospital from a bullet in his chest. Lundy suffered a shot through the right wrist.

The police officers surprised the trio of bandits in the office of the Duquesne Oil company, and a terrific gun battle followed.

Patrolman Conway, who answered the call with Heinlein and Lundy, stopped to help the fallen sergeant, and Lundy shot it out with the bandits, killing one. The other two bandits made their getaway

PA NEWC OBSERVES

And the auto campers are very much about these days. Along the Youngstown road last night there was a group of tents pitched but a short distance from the highway. A warm bonfire was burning with the travelers circled around enjoying it all. It happened to be a group of regular tourists this time, not bonus marchers.

How some people love Old Sol the day after they're been painfully scorched! Enroute downtown today Pa Newc met a friend whose face was a beautiful crimson and whose back—don't let him tell you!—was a glowing red. He'd been at Lake Erie all day yesterday but he wished he'd been home.

Speaking of sunburn, one New Castleite rubs vinegar over his arms and shoulders before he steps out beneath the hot sun, and when he returns there's no smarting to annoy him. Others use other preventatives, but for some it seems nothing will work.

Bathing beaches around this district certainly drew a large crowd on Sunday. Crowds were in evidence at practically every pool in the streams in this vicinity.

McConnell's Mills, the spot near here which has become famous thruout the state for its magnificent beauty, drew many hundred picnickers and swimmers Sunday. A large percentage of those people wandering round today with red and brown

Few Congressmen Remain At Capital

Most Of Members Are Busy On Home Political Campaigns

SOME PROBES WILL BE INAUGURATED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 18. — Congress had scattered far and wide today but a handful of members remained to carry on the dozen investigations of wide variety ordered by the session.

Congress adjourned on Saturday night.

With all of the house members and a third of the senate battling for their own political future, politics became the chief occupation of the congress until November.

Revelations of some of the inquiries, however, may play an important role in the campaign. They will also lay the basis for legislative activity of vast importance next December.

Investigations of the Federal Farm Board and the St. Lawrence waterways treaty, ordered by the senate, are expected by both Republicans and Democrats to furnish material for the campaign.

State Man Asks For Improvements At City Lock-Up

Council Gets Communication From Harrisburg Following Recent Inspection

B. L. Scott, director of Bureau of Restoration at Harrisburg, sent a communication to City council this morning asking the city fathers to make necessary improvements at the city jail in both the men's and women's quarters. The letter follows a recent inspection by one of the investigators for the department made here several weeks ago.

The state official asks that additional cots be placed in the two big women's cells, and that the cells in the men's block be given a coat of white-wash. It was also suggested that the sanitary conditions in the cells could be better taken care of.

Mayor Mayne took exception to the fact that the letter said lights should be left burning in the men's cell block, by saying that he has never noticed the lights being out.

Upon motion of Councilman Hoyland, the letter was filed for future action.

"We try to run a first class jail not a hotel for our guests" said Mayor Mayne, but they never stay long enough to go to a lot of expense of fixing up the quarters, like a New York hostelry."

"I have sentenced some of the men seven days out of the week, and if the place was depressing they certainly wouldn't want to stay in it."

COMMUNISTS IN HOSPITAL

George Lewis, "Of Youngstown" Is Reported In Serious Condition

(International News Service)

MASSILLON, O., July 18.—Investigation was conducted here today to determine the exact nature and cause of illness which afflicted more than 200 persons following luncheon held in connection with the state ratification convention of the Communist party yesterday.

Although more than 200 persons were treated in Massillon hospitals for ptomaine poisoning after they had been stricken, only eight were believed seriously ill today. Physicians said they had obtained specimens for analysis from the stomachs of several of the victims.

Among those in the hospital, and reported in a serious condition but expected to recover, is one registered as George Lewis. Mr. Lewis claims his residence as Youngstown, according to the hospital reports this morning.

Economy Bill In Legislature Stir Opposition

Slashes In Funds For Construction Work Are Combatted

CRITICAL SESSION TO COME TONIGHT

Legislature Ready For Decisive Action On Many Measures

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 18.—Relief legislation reaches the critical stage tonight with the main scene shifting to the senate.

A rising tide of resentment against widespread slashes in government construction confronted legislators returning here today and stamped the fate of the Steedle bill and its companion measures with uncertainty.

Rigid economy as the groundwork of the state-wide relief program, already advanced to within a step of final passage, has drawn fire at a half dozen significant sources. The attitude of organized labor, stoutly assailing the assembly's work, put teeth into Gov. Gifford Pinchot's veto threat and left lawmakers in somewhat of a quandary.

In Senate Committee.

Most of the appropriation cutting bills are now in the hands of the senate committee. As the assembly adjourned last Thursday, the plan of campaign was to report the amended bills to the upper branch tonight, pass them on third reading and then bring them up for final passage tomorrow.

Executive veto then would return them to the floor and observes envision a bitter struggle to enact the program over the veto.

The $24,000,000 Talbot relief bill which would use the money available through reduction of appropriations is on the third reading calendar in the house. Action on this measure will about complete the Talbot-Turner bloc program in the lower branch, which has shunted the

Drastic Action In Germany Due To Bloody Riot

Offenders May Be Shot If Caught Carrying Arms Or Explosives

DECREE GOES OUT BY GOVERNMENT

Pre-Election Demonstrations In Germany Take Toll Of 16 Lives Recently

(International News Service)

BERLIN, July 18.—Impelled to drastic action by the bloody political battles of Sunday, the government today issued a decree prohibiting parades, demonstrations and open air meetings throughout the Reich.

The decree was understood to be a preliminary measure to be tried out for a week to curb pre-election demonstrations which yesterday took a toll of 16 lives throughout Germany. If the step in that time should prove to be ineffective, even more drastic measures will be instituted.

Emergency Decree

"The government is consdering an emergency decree providing the death penalty for violators of arms and explosives regulations," an official communique said.

"Offenders may be shot on sight if caught in possession of arms or explosives.

The announcement concluded with the statement it considered Communists the Reich's most dangerous disturbers of the public peace.

Three Stringent Points

The decree was issued after a meeting of the cabinet with chancellor Von Papen at which these possible course of action were discussed:

1. Proclamation of a "state of emergency", or modified martial law, either country-wide or in the areas threatened with further political disorder.
2. Appointment of a Reich commissioner for Prussia.
3. Prohibition of the Communist party.

It was admitted in government circles that the bloody conflicts of the Sabbath, in which at least a dozen persons were killed and hundreds injured, would probably force the hand of Chancellor Von Papen, who has full authority from President Von Hinderburg to take whatever action is deemed necessary.

ADVERTISING IN NEWS PAYS

Does News' advertising pay? That question bothered Dr. Walter E. McClure last night as he delivered a special sermon at the First Presbyterian church last night, so at the outset he chose to investigate just to set himself sure.

When he asked his overflow audience of listeners how many had come to hear him because of the sermon announcement in The News, a great wave of hands went up. The remainder were members of his congregation and friends.

Dr. McClure Scores Present Day Movies After Western Tour

"God has a controversy with the people of the land—our land is filled with evil" exclaimed Dr. Walter E. McClure, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, downtown, as a capacity audience last night heard him pointedly sum up conditions he saw on a recent western trip.

Dr. and Mrs. McClure attended the Presbyterian general assembly at Denver, and visited Los Angeles and the Pacific coast region after it adjourned. Dr. McClure related in his sermon the impression a Sunday afternoon Hollywood visit left.

Sight Made Hearts Heavy

"What we saw made our hearts heavy," he began. "Particularly did our trip along the beach astound us. There were eight miles of naked humanity lolling over the sands engaged in all kinds of sports. It looked as if the whole city was out for a gala day."

And Dr. McClure said that in his mind he wondered how many of those in the sands had a knowledge of God; how many had ever visited a Sunday School or church. All of them, he decided, had cut entirely loose from the church. What he saw elsewhere was shameful, he said.

Dr. McClure chose his text from a part of Hosea, relating what the prophets forecast for the wicked kingdoms of old. He recalled a recent statement of the Pope, wherein

ERROR ON PART OF COMEDIENNE COSTS $26,000

Viscountess Peel, who is otherwise known as Beatrice Lillie, well-known English comedienne, has made a $26,000 mistake. A few weeks ago she was offered a 13-weeks broadcasting engagement in New York at $2,000 a week for a half hour's talk each week. Believing that the summer holidays of her 11-year-old son, Bobby, would begin before the 13 weeks expired, she refused and sailed for England. But Bobby's school at Hunstanton, England, won't let out until July 28. Miss Lillie, therefore, could have done her broadcasting and still pass all the vacation with Bobby and be $26,000 richer.

CITES INSTANCES IN LETTER TODAY

Declares Economy Is Not Hitting Judicial Or Legislative Branches

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 18.—Citing numerous instances of what he considers extravagance in the legislative branch of the government, Gov. Gifford Pinchot in a letter addressed to Rep. Joseph Steedle, chairman of the house appropriations committee, today suggested that some reasonable economies be applied.

The governor's letter showed that a careful study had been made of the house expenditures in recent years and that so far nothing has been done to reduce them.

No Cut For Legislature.

The cut which the Steedle bill proposes for the governor's office is 25 per cent. The governor pointed out that the house economy program for itself reduces expenditures one-fourteenth of one per cent while not a single penny is cut from the judicial branch of government.

The letter pointed out that there are three branches of government—legislative, judicial and executive. The fact that only the last-mentioned received the attention of the economy program framers brought reference by the governor to what might be considered "discrimination."

"Is there really nothing the members of the house could get along without?" the governor asked. He then proceeded to detail some of the things which he considers unwise at the present time.

"Loot Packages."

One instance cited was the distribution of the so-called "loot packages" which contain pads, pencils and toilet articles. The records show.

FAST TRAIN LEAVES RAILS

No One Seriously Injured In Wreck In Indiana This Morning

(International News Service)

HAMLET, Ind., July 19.—Train No. 15 of the Pennsylvania railroad system flew off the rails near here early today as it was hurtling on its way from New York to Chicago.

Company officials told International News Service there were no deaths or serious injuries in the wreck.

Fifteen coaches of the train, which is a combination passsenger and express carrier, left the tracks, only the locomotive and last car standing.

Broken Flange.

A broken flange was the cause of the wreck.

A company doctor was sent to the scene from Hamlet to treat passengers for minor bruises and cuts, in case such treatment should be found necessary.

Most of the train's coaches were express cars. Only a few passengers were aboard and their coaches were to the rear of the train.

The express cars were the most seriously damaged, some of them having telescoped into each other before they fell off the tracks.

The accident tore up a half mile of rails.

The scene of the wreck is approximately 70 miles east of Chicago.

STATE LIVESTOCK SLUMPS IN VALUE

HARRISBURG, July 19.—The slump in value of horses, cattle, sheep and swine during 1931 amounted to $25,968,000, bringing the total value down to $110,125,000—the lowest since the World War, according to the bureau of statistics and information, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

All classes of farm animals contributed to the decline and all counties shared in the loss. The drop by counties ranged from as low as 10 to as much as 25 per cent.

Ruhlman Arrives At Training Camp

Is Enjoying The Life Of A Naval Recruit According To His Letter

Robert P. Ruhlman, who recently enlisted in the United States navy through Chief Boatswain's Mate F. R. Allison of the local recruiting station, has written an interesting letter from the Great Lakes Training camp, where he is located now in which he states that he is much pleased with the service.

His letter follows: "Dear Mr. Allison: We arrived here about ten-thirty in the morning but we have not yet formed our company as we do not have enough men. We only have thirty-five men and we need seventy-two to form the company. I hope the rest get in here soon, so we can get organized and get into training.

We received our first issue of clothing the day following our arrival. We went to the show last night. It was the five star final. Company 1 puts on a program tonight. I am going to that also.

I am having a good time with the boys. They make it a happy place. We have an excellent place in the barracks. It is a good place for any boy to go to. We are under a quarantine here for three weeks after the company is formed. That is why I am in such a hurry to get across to the other station. I am expecting a letter from you very soon.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT P. RUHLMAN.

BONUS MARCHERS STILL PASS THROUGH

In spite of the fact that Congress has completed its work for the year and there is little likelihood for a relief bill affecting them being passged at this session, bonus marchers still trek through the city enroute to Washington.

A group from Detroit and vicinity, numbering about 80 arrived here late Sunday evening in trucks and camped for the night at the fair grounds, leaving early this morning.

Several cars were observed going the other way, carrying bonus marchers home.

HINT OF DEATH IS MADE REALITY

UNIONTOWN, July 18.—His family successfully reared, himself out of work and, in his own opinion, in the way, Paul Gomonfsky, 65, fired a bullet into his brain at Victoria, near Perryopolis.

Suicidal intentions were suspected when Paul gave several persons the address of his son in New York City, declaring they "would need it soon."

Little more was thought of it until the janitor of the Salcish Hall at Victoria heard a shot in the rear of the building. Gamonfsky was found dying with a revolver clutched in his hand.

SENATOR REED USES CRUTCHES

Hurts Ankle On Spike And Is Suffering With Fracture Of Bone

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18—Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania was at the Senate session on Saturday limping awkwardly about on a pair of new crutches.

Rr. Reed came into the Senate chamber just after the Senate convened, swinging himself along on the crutches, one of his ankles bandaged. Surounded by friends to find out what had happened, the Senator explained it wasn't anything serious.

About a week ago he had been walking along a riverside here and had hurt his ankle on a large spike. He hadn't thought much of the injury at that time, but yesterday the ankle became painful and upon examination a physician announced that a bone was fractured.

Anyhow, the Senator was ordered to crutches, and being new at the game, spent a rather difficult last day bumping about among the Senate desks on his new crutches.

Bean Beetles Are Destroying Crops

Rev. George Smith Says The Best Way To Battle Them Is With Poison

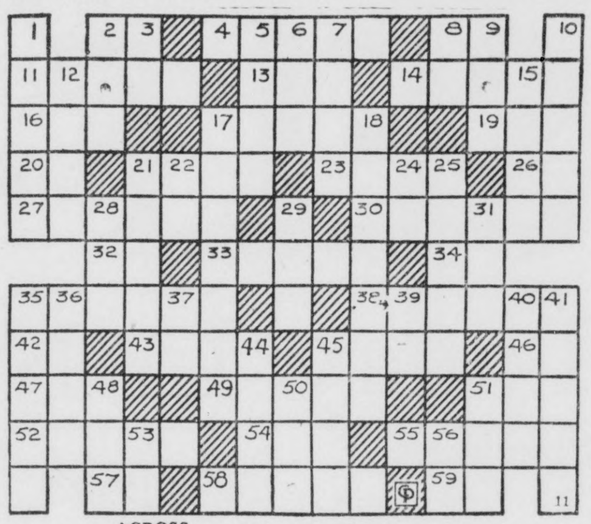

Farmers and gardeners report considerable trouble with bean beetles this summer. The bean beetle, according to Rev. George L. Smith of West State street, looks something like a lady bug, but it is a little larger and is spotted. It lays its eggs under the bean leaves in much the same manner as a potato bug. When the eggs hatch out, the little beetles breakfast on the home leaf and then start out to devour all their neighbors. It is not long until they have stripped the bean stalk of its clothes.

There are two ways of fighting the been beetle, according to Rev. Smith. You can hunt for the leaves upon which the eggs are laid and destroy them, or you can spray the beans with a mixture that will kill the beetles. Hunting the eggs is a tedious task, spraying them is much easier. Smith was heading home with the "makin's" for spray when seen by the reporter. The beetles over in his garden are going to be sorry.

Guards Patrol Around Woman Evangelist's Home

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, July 18—Armed guards today patrolled a Moorish castle at Lake Elsinore where Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist of Angelus Temple, lay critically ill with a basal skull fracture suffered in a fall when told by her husband, David Hutton, Jr., that he had lost a $5000 judgement in a heartbalm suit to Myrtle Hazel Joan St. Pierre, Pasadent "health nurse."

Physicians had warned that the slightest shock probably would cause the noted evangelist's death.

Dr. Edward M. Williams announced her condition was "slightly improved" today, but that it was "still dangerous and the least excitement or shock could bring a sudden end."

Mrs. Hutton's flock filled Angelus Temple during the night offering prayers for her recovery, and prayers today were continued in relays by the congregation.

Congress Session Is Now Concluded

Seven And Half Months' Session Ends On Saturday Night

PROHIBITION LEFT FOR NEXT SESSION

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 18. — The seven and a half months session of congress, which ended Saturday night, left many important problems of legislation hanging fire for consideration next December.

Although leaders on both sides pointed to the far-reaching effect of measures enacted, the legislation of the session was confined largely to strengthening the nation's financial and credit structure to withstand the strain of present conditions.

Problems Unsolved

Comparatively little progress was made in solving the railroad, bus, banking, power and agricultural problems which were prominently discussed.

Permanent banking legislation, urged by the Treasury and Federal Reserve board, fell by the wayside in the fight between the Steagall deposits guaranty and the Glass branch banking measures.

Congress is still torn by dissension over the question of branch banking, urged in the senate measure. The senate has indicated it will have none of the house proposal to guarantee bank deposits.

Complete revision of the railroad rate-making power of the Interstate Commerce Commission and repeal of the recapture clause, which placed a tentative liability of $360,000,000 on the railroads, was recommended by the house interstate committee. Fear of political consequences, however, prevented action.

Regulation of interstate bus traffic, which also involves the railroad problem, also was left unsettled and will be a question for the next congress.

No Agriculture Relief Bill

The past session for the first time in years failed to pass a bill designed to relieve agriculture.

The combination of the three great farm organizations—the National Grange, Farm Bureau and Farmers Union—was left for future action.

This measure combines the equalization fee, the export debenture and a domestic allotment plan of restricting production and stiffening prices.

For years the farm organizations have been at odds on legislation. They reached an agreement by including all their plans, and proposed to give the farm board the option of using any one or all of them.

Senate progressives continued their attack on the "power trust", battling against the proposed throttling of the investigation of the Federal Trade Commission in the name of economy.

Complete federal regulation of interstate power activities has been adopted as the goal for which they will strive next winter.

Prohibition, another question left unsolved, will be with congress when it meets again.

SAXONBURG, Pa., July 18.—Rev. D. M. Conn, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Freeport, was the principal speaker Sunday afternoon at the observance of the centenary of the organization of the Sunday school of the Westminster Presbyterian church of Clinton township, two miles south of Saxonburg.

Organizers of the first Sunday school in 1832 were Hugh and Mary Riddle, James and Sara Boyd, William M. McGeary, Henry Flick, Eliza McGeary, Elizabeth Brewer, Susan Norris and Robert and Mary Thompson. The first meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Love.

Meetings were held each Sunday until 1838 when a log building was erected on the present site of the church. This was replaced by a brick building in 1852 and this structure was destroyed by a windstorm on March 27, 1911. The present brick building was dedicated June 9, 1912.

On April 19, 1852, the name of the church was changed from Upper Bull Creek to Westminster Presbyterian church. Rev. James Norris is present pastor of the church.

Warfare Begins For Guardsmen At Mt. Gretna

Bustle And Confusion Of Getting Ready For Mythical Enemy Engages Troopers

ALL UNITS ARE NOW IN FIELD

(International News Service)

CAMP O'NEIL, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 18—The bustle and confusion of "war" pervaded the Pennsylvania National Guard Encampment today as infantry, cavalry, medical aviation and transportation units prepared to engage a mythical enemy.

All units of the division now in the field, with a total strength of 5,000 soldiers, will take part in the combat maneuvers this week. The "fighting" takes place 20 miles north of the base here near Indiantown gap on the site of the new military reservation property acquired by the state last year. The country is mountainous and thickly wooded.

"Hostilities" began at 8 o'clock today when the 103rd cavalry regiment encamped at Colebrook three miles from division headquarters at Mount Gretna, broke camp and took to the road in full regalia. The men had orders to march northward by the shortest route and seize the pass in Blue Mountains at Indiantown gap.

For Three Nights

Acting as advance party, with scouts out still farther in advance was the third squadron under command of Major Edward T. Miller. The rest of the troops trailed far in the rear, riding by twos in the dusty road. Suficient rations were taken to sustain the troops for a four-day march. The citizen-soldiers will spend three night in Bivouac and ride their horses between 75 and 100 miles before the combat problem is completed.

National Guard airplanes of the 28th division, located at the army air depot in Middletown, under Major John V. Dallen, flew over the route of march and made connections with the cavalry by means of messages dropped to the ground and by radio.

Infantry regiments of the 56th brigade under the leadership of Brigadier General Robert M. Brookfield of Philadelphia, will take part in the "war" on Tuesday and Wednesday. They will move toward the cavalry at Indiantown Gap in army trucks and afoot.

Basic Training.

Staff officers of this brigade scored 100 per cent in qualifications with the pistol, it was announced by Capt. Charles L. Supplee. General Brookfield, Capt. George L. Roat and Lieut. John D. Beck qualified as experts; Major Albert R. Stuetz, Lieut. George Asnip and Lieut. Leighton P. Stradley as sharpshooters, and Captain Supplee and Lieut. Carryl E. Stauffer as marksmen.

The gaurdsmen of the two regiments comprising this brigade continued their basic training today in musketry, bayonet and hand grenade drill, and special combat firing.

Other units now in camp for two weeks' duty and which will take part in the road march and division maneuvers are the 28th special troops of Philadelphia under Major James B. Cousart; the 103rd medical regiment of western and central Pennsylvania under Col. Edward Iland; 28th division trains, central Pennsylvania, commanded by Major George P. Drake and the division and brigade headquarters companies.

Police Cruiser Fires On Auto

Girl And Companion Are Wounded In Episode At Akron, Ohio

AKRON, Ohio, July 18.—A 22-year-old Alliance girl and a man companion were shot with a police riot gun early Sunday, when a radio cruiser patrolman, pursuing prowlers, opened fire on a automobile with four passengers.

An investigation, started immediately by Sergt. Fred Vierick, will be taken before Acting Chief F. W. Diesz at 3 this afternoon. Patrolman Wallace Graves, according to the report made to Capt. William Poalson, in charge at the time, fired four charges at close range into the machine.

The girl victim gave her name as Helen Knau, 22 of 2459 S. Arch street, Alliance. She was taken to City hospital for treatment of wounds in her left leg and released later Sunday. She said she was a waitress.

Some of the shots struck James Pickett, 30, of 48 E. Mapledale avenue, in the left arm above the elbow. He was treated at City hospital and sent home.

With two men who gave their names as Roy Morrison and Joseph Easterly, Pickett and Miss Knau were riding west on N. Adams street. Easterly was driving the small coach.

Patrolman Graves told his superiors he had become separated from Patrolman D. W. Mellinger in chasing two prowlers in the alley near the Albresht bakery.

As Graves ran from the alley, he said, he was nearly run down by a car which he attempted to flag to a stop with his flashlight.

Graves reported that he had to jump to avoid being hit and then let go with the riot gun. When the car kept on going he shot three more times, he said. The slugs struck the rear and left front door, several plowing through and stricking Pickett and Miss Knau.

Easterly and companions said that they merely were driving past when the shot suddenly riddled their automobile.

Would Have Gland Tests Of Politicians

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service Science Writer.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Politics may be "funny" to Speaker Garner, but to Dr. A. S. Blumgarten, special lecturer at Columbia university's summer session, it is a matter of endocrine gland function in the individual politicians.

"A man," he said today, "is as good an executive as his endocrine system makes him. If he has not the proper glandular make-up for an executive position, the public suffers. It would be a splendid thing if government officials were required to submit to gland examinations."

Dr. Blumgarten, consulting endocrinologist at Lenox Hill and Lebanon hospitals, believes all school children should be given gland examinations "as a matter of course along with mental and physical examinations."

"Accurate and complete endocrine analysis of an individual would give full knowledge of his traits," he said. "Gland analysis for school children might have an important effect on teaching, even of normal children, because it would give the teacher complete understanding of the child's aptitudes and weaknesses and of his emotional nature."

The endocrine glands are the ductless glands of the body, which pour into the blood stream minute qualities of chemicals known as "hormones". It is Dr. Blumgarten's belief that the function of these various glands conditions the whole emotional life of individuals.

Police Dropping Lenient Policy On Bonus Army

Arrest Veterans Who Attempt Picketing — Others Kept On Move

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Police dropped their hitherto lenient policy toward the bonus army today, and arrested two marchers who initiated a picketing move on police court where the three veterans arrested Saturday night were to be arraigned.

The two men, Albert Hale, 40; of Detroit, and John Fabroshoki, 39, of Pittsburgh, were held for investigation and a group of half a hundred of their followers ordered to "keep moving".

The arrests caused little disturbance, but gave added impetus to a move among the so-called "radical" element of the bonus-seeking veterans to again try and picket the White House in protesting failure of congress to enact legislation for payment of their adjusted compensation service certificates.

Police have flatly turned thumbs down on any such plan. And probably the small guard around the White House grounds will be reinforced tonight. The disturbance cause Saturday, when 53 marchers tried to picket the White House, caused the heaviest cordon of police since the war to be thrown around the executive mansion.

Business Upturn In Sixty Days Forecast

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 18.—Optimistic over an early economic recovery, E. T. Weir, chairman of the Board of National Steel Corporation, today was on record with the prediction of a business upturn within 60 days.

Weir and A. W. Robertson, board chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, conferred last week with President Hoover at Washington but neither would discuss the conversations.

The steel leader cited a "reasonable extension of credit" and small home building through borrowing on sound mortgages as factors necessary to business recovery.

R. F. C. LOANS TO INDUSTRY

SUGGESTION made locally that loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to industry, should be granted only on condition that they are to be used to continue employment of workers, or to start idle plants, or to add additional workers, is one that has a lot of merit.

Certain it is that the surest method of bringing United States out of the industrial depression is to increase employment to a normal stage. This can only be done by putting the unemployed millions back on the job.

Once employment is provided for any considerable proportion of these the buying power of the masses will increase and the results would quickly be apparent.

It will be of scant advantage for millions to be loaned to industry if that money is not put into action so that it will increase the amount of employment. It is not too much to say that it would be a just condition in the grant of any loan that it should be demanded that the loan be utilized in that respect.

Loans to industry should be granted with the chief aim of putting more men back at work, and of keeping those already employed from being thrown out of employment.

Getting work for the unemployed is the biggest task that is faced by America at the present time, and government loans should be directed in that line.

$100,000,000 WASTED

The American Legion last week came out against the disability allowance law which permits veterans who have been injured in civil life to draw regular monthly payments from the federal treasury, just as if they had been injured in war.

These payments are now costing the government over $100,000,000 a year, and in many cases are being made to men who are regularly employed and even to some who have large incomes. The payments range from $12 to $40 a month and are being drawn by 350,000 men.

Repeal of this law would be one of the quickest and easiest ways to effect a substantial economy in the federal budget, and it could be accomplished without injustice. The government is under no obligation to pay these pensions to men who suffered no disability in war.

MR. COOLIDGE FAVORS SALES TAX

People who control the government must pay the taxes to support it. Power and responsibility can not be separated, politically or economically.. These thoughts supply the foundation upon which Calvin Coolidge builds up his advocacy of a general sales tax in the current issue of Collier's. In publicly announcing his views, the former president has apparently come to his conclusions after long deliberation.

When a large number of persons pay small direct amounts, they share in the cost of maintaining protection for their property. Nearly two-thirds the population, Mr. Coolidge estimates, belong to the class which does own property, often through investment in securities or in insurance supported by securities. It is to their interest to maintain the integrity of these forms of wealth through stability of government which, accordingly, they must finance with their taxes.

The alternative of soaking the rich would mean ultimately that authority would pass into the hands of the few who pay the bills. Conversely, spreading out widely and thinly the tax pressure will guarantee a corresponding distribution of the rights which control property. The general sales tax meets the need of a self-governing nation without weighing appreciation upon the consumer.

CHAUTAUQUA WEEK'S PASSING?

If the current season doesn't hear the chautauqua sing its swan song the next few years probably will. Throughout the country there are indications that this institution is making a sort of last stand for existence. Every season closes with fewer communities renewing their contracts and with more chautauquas going out of business.

Many causes are contributing to its demise. Most of the old head-lining spell-binders who were wont to trod the chautauqua planks in years gone by are dead, in their dotages or out of popular favor. Talent has been attracted to other fields by higher pay, and the talkies, radio and automobile furnish stiff competition.

The chautaque was intended to provide the people of the smaller communities with a variety of instruction and entertainment that was difficult to obtain in any other way. It offered programs by readers, lecturers, impersonators and musicians. There was a junior department to attract the young and make chautauqua week a community affair in fact as well as in name.

Today even the villager demands something more spectacular than he can find in the chautauqua tent. And not finding it there he discontinues buying season tickets for the family.

Pompous Dignity
Sitting in a Strawberry Patch
Gypsy Fires

By MARSHALL MASLIN

When I have seen Dignity go pompously down the street, stroking its long gray beard, speaking in slow and measured tones, begging a smile and never condescending to a laugh, whenever I have seen Dignity in its grave and shallow role—I have longed for a banana peel or any other slippery indignity that would send False Dignity sprawling. . . . I believe in Courage, I believe in Dignity When I see it slowly striding down the street I think, "Behind that mask is a man who is afraid of life and dares not let himself be seen."

* * *

If you have never crouched in the middle of a strawberry patch and sought the red fruit beneath the wide green leaves, and eaten—and eaten—and eaten—and gotten a crick in the back and your face all stained and your hands all dirty—and never stopped until you had eaten your fill and couldn't possibly eat another—well, you don't know what you have missed. One of the juciest experences of life has passed you by.

Somewhere in the essays of the wise Montaigne he tells of being surprised in his home by friends who came to pay an important visit—and found him on his knees on the floor playing with children. . . . They smiled and he rebuked them and his defense of himself is one of the pleasantest passages in literature.

* * *

Once I told an acquaintance that I was about to be married. He leaned to me confidentially and gave me detailed instructions as to how I could "get out of it." . . . I thanked him gravely but did not take the advice.

It seems to me I've written of that man and his advice before, but what if I have? . . . The sun comes back each morning, the moon appears in fullness once a month, green grass comes back each spring — why shouldn't a poor writer repeat what he has written before?

* * *

When I was a stone-bruised boy I passed a gypsy camp in the dark and stood around and heard their strange tongue and watched the flames of those gypsy fires. . . . Something wild and free was in our neighborhood that night. . . . And I shall be old and dried up and ready for the wind to blow me away before I forget the strangeness of fire the gypsies made.

A certain grandson of Queen Victoria, when a freshman at Oxford, had spent all of his allowance and, what is worse, gone ten pounds in debt.

He appealed to his royal grandmother, asking her for an advance on future remittances He didn't get it. Instead, he received a lengthy letter from that austere lady containing some reproof and much, much advice.

In due course the young man replied to this. He had, he said, decided to heed everything his grandmother had to say about conservatism and thrift and had, in fact, already begun by selling the original of her letter to a collector for twenty-five pounds.

YOUR EMOTIONS

Some days you are in high spirits and little troubles do not depress you.

Other days, conditions are as good, yet you are melancholy and irritable.

Often you feel so happy, and at such times you cannot understand why you are so sad and cranky with nameless fear clutching at your heart at other times.

Aren't these two conditions the result of your viewpoint upon life?

Of course there may be mental and physical troubles sufficient to affect your spirits, but why lose sight entirely of the brightness in life?

If you could control your morose and sullen qualities you might enjoy many more happy days than you do.

One day should be just as happy as another, each day presents about the same number of annoyances.

It is largely a matter of self-control.

But you are unwilling to ignore vexations and real troubles.

You are not willing to exercise your powers to overcome your tendency to gloominess.

You prefer a foreboding outlook to disciplining yourself.

If you would but realize that your mind works more freely and actively when you do control emotions, you might be better able to cope with big problems.

Fame Recorded For World Fliers Despite Plane Crash

Though Failing To Attain Their Objective To Cut Down Time For Circling The Globe, Mattern And Griffin Hang Up Two New Aviation Records

In spite of the crash in central Europe which ended their hopes of breaking the round-the-world flight record of Post and Gatty, James Mattern and Bennett Griffin are credited with achievements in speed and flying efficiency. Their performance in establishing two new records—the fastest trans-Atlantic crossing and the first non-stop flight from the United States to Berlin—are recognized as definite contributions to the progress of aviation.

"So far as records go, they have two to their credit—the best time for a trans-Atlantic crossing and the honor of being first in 'linking' this continent straight with Berlin," says the BALTIMORE SUN, predicting that they will try again for the bigger undertaking and remarking that "nobody but record-seeking aviators will ever choose to travel in such style, anyway, and for most of us there is no comfort or even meaning in demonstrations that the earth is only a week in circumference." The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS feels that "the two latest challengers of fate are alive and well, with honors enough to console them," and that "such flights have distinct value," for "experienced men gain knowledge that may be of service to others." The Daily News concludes: "Reduction of travel time is important for a world that becomes increasingly interdependent. Insofar as success is attained confidence in aviation is strengthened. Even accidents play a useful part by disclosing mechanical weaknesses that can be eliminated in later airplane models."

"They have a new Atlantic record for their consolation," advises the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, with the comment that "it takes courage and determination and great physical endurance to make the attempt, and these are qualities which cannot too often be demonstrated as an example to the race." The Times-Union suggests that "probably in a few years someone will be offering a cup for the annual round-the-world race." The BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD states: "In flying from Harbor Grace to Berlin without stop they had accomplished what others have tried and missed. It is from such failures as these men made that great triumphs are wrought." The HARTFORD TIMES voices the opinion: "The airplane still catches popular fancy when sent into extraordinary trials. It can do wonders but everything must be right. It is another thing which is as strong as its weakest link."

"Americans," proclaims the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, "are surely taking aviation honors in quick succession and the press is chronicling these important events one after the other. As the history of aviation is permanently enshrined in book form the United States will figure very prominently in that volume as her sons and daughters have greatly distinguished themselves in the air."

"The frontier at which Alexander wept because there were no more worlds to conquer should be due soon, for there is no distance left," declares the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE. "Everything is speeded up, except politics and political thought. We still run the government at Washington on the horseback schedule of George Washington's time. We still, nearly all of us, do our thinking as if the world were organized as it was in Grover Cleveland's time. Everything else psysical and mental, has become contemporaneous. How soon will politics?"

"The unerring accuracy with which these two airmen spanned the tricky Atlantic spite of rain and fog," says the MIAMI DAILY NEWS, "testifies not only to the ability of the pilots, but as well to the improvement of planes and 'blind flying' instruments used to navigate them when bad weather interferes." Of the task, the ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC declares: "It means a terrific, unrelenting concentration on the task in hand, clear, keen eyes and judgment; unwavering self-confidence; and it means luck, too, in generous measure. Not many there are who have the temerity to fly into the face of such hazards, but to those who do, the world gives its accolade."

"Very probably," in the opinion of the CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL, "they will make another attempt, as flyers such as they are don't give up easily. Although round-the-world flying against time largely is a stunt affair, such undertakings do contribute something to aviation through the experience gained by the flyers and the advertising value which it has for aviation. It, therefore, is not futile, and those who undertake round-the-world air flights and other similar hazardous exploits in planes, are deserving of acclaim. Americans generally will hope that the next attempt by Mattern and Griffin will be successful."

"The speed with which it can now be done is the outstanding thing—that and the amazing reliability of engines," thinks the DES MOINES TRIBUNE, while the SCRANTON TIMES makes the comment: "With the wonderful start they had their chances of making a new round-the-world record appeared to be bright. Their mistake now appears to have been in hurrying away after reaching Berlin. Probably had they taken a few hours' rest and had the plane thoroughly inspected, the weakness in the controls would have been detected. Even machinery must be rested occasionally to get the best out of it."

"Maybe they will succeed in another plane and make the world even smaller than it has appeared since Post and Gatty flew around in 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes," says the CLEVELAND NEWS, with the conclusion that "the world grows more neighborly as speedy travel shrinks its size." The News also states: "It was good news to America when Gatty and Post made a record, just as it was good news in Spain when Magellan's ship did it, and just as it was good news in England when Drake did it. And it will be good news if Mattern and Griffin do it some day."

THE WORK OF SUMMER

Comes summer to the world its work to do,
To bring fruition to the tiny seed;
To strew the earth with all that man may need;
To give the apple cheek its crimson hue
And the rich stores of golden grain renew;
To toil with patience and with certain speed
Without complaint o'er large or trivial deed,
And run in service here its brief course through.

I sometimes think that Summer seems to know
It shall not live to see its tasks complete,
It lays its glories gained at Autumn's feet,
And is content in having labored so,
As some tired father when his time is done,
Who leaves to those he loves the treasures won.

People Make Life A Tangled Puzzle When Trying To Solve World's Problems, Divine Says

DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK
Pastor Of Riverside Church, New York City

For multitudes of people religion has ceased being a source of confident and joyful life and has become a matter of debate. The symbol of much modern religion i. a discussion group. Some generations are predominantly appreciative. They enjoy their religion, live by it, make a festival of it, create great music to celebrate it, build a cathedral to enshrine it. Other generations are predominantly critical. They ask questions, raise doubts, seek for reasons, analyze their faith.

No doubt can exist as to the kind of generation we are living in. Multitudes of people are intensely interested in religion and a midnight session on a college campus is almost sure to discuss two subjects—love and religion; but it is religion as a problem to be debated, not as a privilege to be enjoyed.

The tragic situation in the world at large accentuates this mood. Everything is a problem—business, education, politics, internationalism—so that people became excessively problem-conscious, until all life appears at a tangled puzzle. In consequence, insanity increases, suicides mount, nervous breakdowns multiply, and even more normal people lose the faith and morale to solve the very problems they worry over.

Under these circumstances it is important to see that religion is like nature or music or the family; problems do abound in all of them, but also privileges to be rejoiced in and lived by. Granted that a man who tries to take the privileges without facing the problems is a sentimentalist! It also is true that a man who in any such realm becomes so problem-conscious that he does not rejoice in its powers and opportunities becomes dry, unhappy and futile.

We do not need to solve all the scientific problems about nature before we can enjoy the Maine coast or find health in the mountains. No more do we need to solve all the problems about religion before we can begin to live by it and draw power from it. There are unsolved and, it may be, insoluble problems about God, Christ, prayer and the Bible, but there are basic ideas and ideals in Christianity to be rejoiced in and lived for in the meantime.

Beware of becoming pathologically obsessed by the problematical aspect of life. Richness of living depends on discoveries of positive privileges of life under, over and within the problems

Throughout the country there are indications that this institution is making a sort of last stand for existence. Every season closes with fewer communities renewing their contracts and with more chautauquas going out of business.

Many causes are contributing to its demise. Most of the old head-lining spell-binders who were wont to trod the chautauqua planks in years gone by are dead, in their dotages or out of popular favor. Talent has been attracted to other fields by higher pay, and the talkies, radio and automobile furnish stiff competition.

The chautaque was intended to provide the people of the smaller communities with a variety of instruction and entertainment that was difficult to obtain in any other way. It offered programs by readers, lecturers, impersonators and musicians. There was a junior department to attract the young and make chautauqua week a community affair in fact as well as in name.

Today even the villager demands something more spectacular than he can find in the chautauqua tent. And not finding it there he discontinues buying season tickets for the family.

Pompous Dignity
Sitting in a Strawberry Patch
Gypsy Fires

By MARSHALL MASLIN

When I have seen Dignity go pompously down the street, stroking its long gray beard, speaking in slow and measured tones, begging a smile and never condescending to a laugh, whenever I have seen Dignity in its grave and shallow role—I have longed for a banana peel or any other slippery indignity that would send False Dignity sprawling. . . . I believe in Courage, I believe in Dignity When I see it slowly striding down the street I think, "Behind that mask is a man who is afraid of life and dares not let himself be seen."

* * *

If you have never crouched in the middle of a strawberry patch and sought the red fruit beneath the wide green leaves, and eaten—and eaten—and eaten—and gotten a crick in the back and your face all stained and your hands all dirty—and never stopped until you had eaten your fill and couldn't possibly eat another—well, you don't know what you have missed. One of the juciest experences of life has passed you by.

Somewhere in the essays of the wise Montaigne he tells of being surprised in his home by friends who came to pay an important visit—and found him on his knees on the floor playing with children. . . . They smiled and he rebuked them and his defense of himself is one of the pleasantest passages in literature.

* * *

Once I told an acquaintance that I was about to be married. He leaned to me confidentially and gave me detailed instructions as to how I could "get out of it." . . . I thanked him gravely but did not take the advice.

It seems to me I've written of that man and his advice before, but what if I have? . . . The sun comes back each morning, the moon appears in fullness once a month, green grass comes back each spring — why shouldn't a poor writer repeat what he has written before?

* * *

When I was a stone-bruised boy I passed a gypsy camp in the dark and stood around and heard their strange tongue and watched the flames of those gypsy fires. . . . Something wild and free was in our neighborhood that night. . . . And I shall be old and dried up and ready for the wind to blow me away before I forget the strangeness of fire the gypsies made.

A certain grandson of Queen Victoria, when a freshman at Oxford, had spent all of his allowance and, what is worse, gone ten pounds in debt.

He appealed to his royal grandmother, asking her for an advance on future remittances He didn't get it. Instead, he received a lengthy letter from that austere lady containing some reproof and much, much advice.

In due course the young man replied to this. He had, he said, decided to heed everything his grandmother had to say about conservatism and thrift and had, in fact, already begun by selling the original of her letter to a collector for twenty-five pounds.

YOUR EMOTIONS

Some days you are in high spirits and little troubles do not depress you.

Other days, conditions are as good, yet you are melancholy and irritable.

Often you feel so happy, and at such times you cannot understand why you are so sad and cranky with nameless fear clutching at your heart at other times.

Aren't these two conditions the result of your viewpoint upon life?

Of course there may be mental and physical troubles sufficient to affect your spirits, but why lose sight entirely of the brightness in life?

If you could control your morose and sullen qualities you might enjoy many more happy days than you do.

One day should be just as happy as another, each day presents about the same number of annoyances.

It is largely a matter of self-control.

But you are unwilling to ignore vexations and real troubles.

You are not willing to exercise your powers to overcome your tendency to gloominess.

You prefer a foreboding outlook to disciplining yourself.

If you would but realize that your mind works more freely and actively when you do control emotions, you might be better able to cope with big problems.

One of the real substantial citizens of New Castle called up the Hints and Dints man and after saying some nice things to him invited him to his place and he would give us something that would make us feel good. Fame Recorded For World Fliers Despite Plane Crash

Though Failing To Attain Their Objective To Cut Down Time For Circling The Globe, Mattern And Griffin Hang Up Two New Aviation Records

In spite of the crash in central Europe which ended their hopes of breaking the round-the-world flight record of Post and Gatty, James Mattern and Bennett Griffin are credited with achievements in speed and flying efficiency. Their performance in establishing two new records—the fastest trans-Atlantic crossing and the first non-stop flight from the United States to Berlin—are recognized as definite contributions to the progress of aviation.

"So far as records go, they have two to their credit—the best time for a trans-Atlantic crossing and the honor of being first in 'linking' this continent straight with Berlin," says the BALTIMORE SUN, predicting that they will try again for the bigber undertaking and remarking that "nobody but record-seeking aviators will ever choose to travel in such style, anyway, and for most of us there is no comfort or even meaning in demonstrations that the earth is only a week in circumference." The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS feels that "the two latest challengers of fate are alive and well, with honors enough to console them," and that "such flights have distinct value," for "experienced men gain knowledge that may be of service to others." The Daily News concludes: "Reduction of travel time is important for a world that becomes increasingly interdependent. Insofar as success is attained confidence in aviation is strengthened. Even accidents play a useful part by disclosing mechanical weaknesses that can be eliminated in later airplane models."

"They have a new Atlantic record for their consolation," advises the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, with the comment that "it takes courage and determination and great physical endurance to make the attempt, and these are qualities which cannot too often be demonstrated as an example to the race." The Times-Union suggests that "probably in a few years someone will be offering a cup for the annual round-the-world race." The BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD states: "In flying from Harbor Grace to Berlin without stop they had accomplished what others have tried and missed. It is from such failures as these men made that great triumphs are wrought." The HARTFORD TIMES voices the opinion: "The airplane still catches popular fancy when sent into extraordinary trials. It can do wonders but everything must be right. It is another thing which is as strong as its weakest link."

"Americans," proclaims the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, "are surely taking aviation honors in quick succession and the press is chronicling these important events one after the other. As the history of aviation is permanently enshrined in book form the United States will figure very prominently in that volume as her sons and daughters have greatly distinguished themselves in the air."

"The frontier at which Alexander wept because there were no more worlds to conquer should be due soon, for there is no distance left," declares the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE. "Everything is speeded up, except politics and political thought. We still run the government at Washington on the horse-back schedule of George Washington's time. We still, nearly all of us, do our thinking as if the world were organized as it was in Grover Cleveland's time. Everything else psysical and mental, has become contemporaneous. How soon will politics?"

"The unerring accuracy with which these two airmen spanned the tricky Atlantic spite of rain and fog," says the MIAMI DAILY NEWS, "testifies not only to the ability of the pilots, but as well to the improvement of planes and 'blind flying' instruments used to navigate them when bad weather interferes." Of the task, the ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC declares: "It means a terrific, unrelenting concentration on the task in hand, clear, keen eyes and judgment; unwavering self-confidence; and it means luck, too, in generous measure. Not many there are who have the temerity to fly into the face of such hazards, but to those who do, the world gives its accolade."

"Very probably," in the opinion of the CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL, "they will make another attempt, as flyers such as they are don't give up easily. Although round-the-world flying against time largely is a stunt affair, such undertakings do contribute something to aviation through the experience gained by the flyers and the advertising value which it has for aviation. It, therefore, is not futile, and those who undertake round-the-world air flights and other similar hazardous exploits in planes, are deserving of acclaim. Americans generally will hope that the next attempt by Mattern and Griffin will be successful."

"The speed with which it can now be done is the outstanding thing—that and the amazing reliability of engines," thinks the DES MOINES TRIBUNE, while the SCRANTON TIMES makes the comment: "With the wonderful start they had their chances of making a new round-the-world record appeared to be bright. Their mistake now appears to have been in hurrying away after reaching Berlin. Probably had they taken a few hours' rest and had the plane thoroughly inspected, the weakness in the controls would have been detected. Even machinery must be rested occasionally to get the best out of it."

"Maybe they will succeed in another plane and make the world even smaller than it has appeared since Post and Gatty flew around in 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes," says the CLEVELAND NEWS, with the conclusion that "the world grows more neighborly as speedy travel shrinks its size." The News also states: "It was good news to America when Gatty and Post made a record, just as it was good news in Spain when Magellan's ship did it, and just as it was good news in England when Drake did it. And it will be good news if Mattern and Griffin do it some day."

THE WORK OF SUMMER

Comes summer to the world its work to do,
To bring fruition to the tiny seed;
To strew the earth with all that man may need;
To give the apple cheek its crimson hue
And the rich stores of golden grain renew;
To toil with patience and with certain speed
Without complaint o'er large or trivial deed,
And run in service here its brief course through.

I sometimes think that Summer seems to know
It shall not live to see its tasks complete.
It lays its glories gained at Autumn's feet,
And is content in having labored so,
As some tired father when his time is done,
Who leaves to those he loves the treasures won.

Bible Thought For Today

OUR CONFESSION:—God is our God forever and ever: he will be our guide even unto death. Psalm 48: 14.

People Make Life A Tangled Puzzle When Trying To Solve World's Problems, Divine Says

DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK Pastor Of Riverside Church, New York City

For multitudes of people religion has ceased being a source of confident and joyful life and has become a matter of debate. The symbol of much modern religion i a discussion group. Some generations are predominantly appreciative. They enjoy their religion, live by it, make a festival of it, create great music to celebrate it, build a cathedral to enshrine it. Other generations are predominantly critical. They ask questions, raise doubts, seek for reasons, analyze their faith.

No doubt can exist as to the kind of generation we are living in. Multitudes of people are intensely interested in religion and a midnight session on a college campus is almost sure to discuss two subjects—love and religion; but it is religion as a problem to be debated, not as a privilege to be enjoyed.

The tragic situation in the world at large accentuates this mood. Everything is a problem—business, education, politics, internationalism—so that people became excessively problem-conscious, until all life appears at a tangled puzzle. In consequence, insanity increases, suicides mount, nervous breakdowns multiply, and even more normal people lose the faith and morale to solve the very problems they worry over.

Under these circumstances it is important to see that religion is like nature or music or the family; problems do abound in all of them, but also privileges to be rejoiced in and lived by. Granted that a man who tries to take the privileges without facing the problems is a sentimentalist! It also is true that a man who in any such realm becomes so problem-conscious that he does not rejoice in its powers and opportunities becomes dry, unhappy and futile.

We do not need to solve all the scientific problems about nature before we can enjoy the Maine coast or find health in the mountains. No more do we need to solve all the problems about religion before we can begin to live by it and draw power from it. There are unsolved and, it may be, insoluble problems about God, Christ, prayer and the Bible, but there are basic ideas and ideals in Christianity to be rejoiced in and lived for in the meantime.

Beware of becoming pathologically obsessed by the problematical aspect of life. Richness of living depends on discoveries the positive privileges of life under, over and within the problems

Discord And Administration Attitude Cause Hopes To Vanish

LITTLE CHANCE TO OVERRIDE VETO

Pinchot Asks R. F. C. For Loan Of $45,000,000 For Pennsylvania

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 19.—Pennsylvania's assembly today lost sight of the adjournment anticipated for this week and faced the grim fact that discord and administration frowns stand out as menacing barriers in the path to early success.

Bloc leaders, their program within a step of passage, saw their hopes totter as two bills, one in each branch, were made the bases of significant test votes. In addition, the senate appropriations committee decided to defer reporting on the Steedle bill to the floor. In the house, the Blumberg-Witkin bill, opposed by the administration, was scuttled after bitter debate. The measure was designed to return one and a half cents of the present gasoline tax to the counties instead of one-half cent now provided in the law. The vote was recorded as 101 for enactment and 90 against. A count of 105 was necessary for passage, however, the vote in its favor falling four short of the mark.

Jolt in Senate.

The senate added its jolt to the economy proponents when an appropriation repealer, of minor importance in itself but of tremendous significance as a test of sentiment, was passed with only two votes to spare. The bill provides for repeal of the $25,000 appropriated toward the celebration of the Chicago centennial next year. Forces opposing huge appropriation cuts were able to muster 18 votes against the measure. It received 28 favorable votes, or only two more than was necessary for passage. The bill was sent to the governor.

The house vote strengthened the belief of legislators that hopes of overriding a veto are virtually futile. While bloc leaders were able to muster 144 votes last week and beat down a move to postpone action on the Steedle bill, they saw that figure shrink to a mere 101 last night. To override a veto, 139 votes are necessary. The snag in the senate was of surprising dimensions.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

There is little use of having the stop signs at the different intersections unless people learn to observe them. The one at the corner of Neshannock avenue and North street, is abused quite often. There are a number of cars which come to it and give it little or no heed.

Now that every one has commented on the beautiful hydrangeas on Wilmington avenue, Young Pa Newc thinks it is time the owners name is mentioned. Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Cleal of 705 Wilmington avenue, are the proud owners of these beautiful flowers which have attracted many an eye.

North Beaver township high school, at Mt. Jackson, can feel proud today for copping a new record. It became known that fourth place honors in a state-wide Farm Crop Achievement test have been won by the boys of the school's vocational agricultural department. Good work, Lawrence countians! You had 834 farm boys to compete against and it shows what skill you demonstrated.

Pa Newc wonders why the city can't fly a flag from the public square pole every clear day. It would seem right and proper, we feel.

PYMATUNING DAM FUND STANDS INTACT

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 19.—Announcement was made by the house appropriations committee today that the Spangler bill reducing the appropriation for development of the Pymatuning dam project was dead for the present session.

The bill would have reduced the appropriation made by the 1931 session by $400,000. Failure to act on the bill automatically restores the original appropriation so far as the legislature is concerned.

Rep. Bart Richards, Lawrence, led the battle on the house floor to halt the slash.

Mellon Is Sailing Home With Europe's Debt Plea

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 19.—Andrew W. Mellon, American ambassador, is sailing for home on the Majestic tomorrow to lay before President Hoover personally Europe's urgent plea for drastic reduction in the war debts owed the United States.

This was learned from reliable sources shortly after the unexpected announcement of Mellon's departure was made.

Even at the embassy, where it was emphasized that the ambassador's trip was in connection with personal affairs, it was admitted that he would seize the opportunity to acquaint the president with his observation on the European political and economic situation.

The Embassy said the former secretary of the treasury had some time ago planned a trip to the United States this summer and was now taking advantage of the general lull in European affairs.

In other quarters, however, it was said that Mellon actually came to a rather sudden decision to embark for home after conferences with British treasury officials on their return from the Lausanne reparations conference.

He is going to Washington, it was stated, to explain to President Hoover what the British government claims to be the exact nature of the secret "gentlemen's agreement" reached between Britain and France at Lausanne. This agreement makes the wiping out of German reparation payments by the

Throng Prays In Temple For Recovery—Mother Files Divorce Suit

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Throngs remained in Angelus Temple today praying for the recovery of their leader, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, whose condition continued serious at her Moorish Temple at Lake Elsinore.

"She is in no imminent danger," declared Dr. Edward H. Williams who returned last night from Lake Elsinore. "She needs absolutely undisturbed rest and quiet. Her condition was satisfactory when I left Elsinore."

Los Angeles, July 19.—Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy-Hudson, mother of Mrs. Aimee Temple McPherson-Hutton, the evangelist, today had on file a suit to divorce Guy E. "what-a-man" Hudson whom she married a year ago in a romantic setting on the shore of a lake in Washington.

Mrs. Hudson charged that Hudson drank excessively, was cruel, and used abusive profanity.

"He was 'what-a-man' when I married him, but I really should have called him 'what-a-flop'," declared Mrs. Hudson.

Dynamite Blast Kills Young Lady

Shower Of Rocks Falls On Edith Bailey, 21, As She Sits In Boat

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—A geyser of stones and rocks, torn from a river bed by a dynamite blast, killed Edith Bailey, 21, as she sat in a motorboat on Big Timber creek, near Westville, N. J., last night.

A jagged sliver of stone, almost three inches long, pierced the girl's chest and a lung and severed the main heart artery, killing her almost instantly.

Men aboard a dredging craft about 150 feet from the scene of the explosion were unable to give police definite information concerning the tragedy. Prosecutor Joseph J. Summerill, of Gloucester county, today ordered a complete investigation

Will Not Hold Institute For Rural Teachers

Lawrence County Will Abandon Institute This Year, Syling States

OTHER COUNTIES ARE DOING LIKEWISE

Decision has been made by the county school authorities to do away with the annual teacher's institute this fall, County Superintendent of Schools J. C. Syling stated this morning.

The move is made as an economy measure, and is in line with similar action being taken by a number of other counties in the district, Beaver and Clarion counties having decided to do away with institutes this fall.

To Save $6,000.

Approximately $6,000 will be saved by the various rural school districts as a result, as the teachers were paid $20 each for attending the sessions, which came out of the treasuries of the different county districts.

It is felt that this money can be saved and that the school districts can use the money to purchase needed text books, which will be of just as much value to the schools and the teachers as would the institute.

It is believed that the state legislature will enact legislation abandoning institutes all over the state, Mr. Syling stated, as it would save the taxpayers a considerable amount of money.

Mr. Syling plans to have the teachers assemble for one day, prior to the start of school, when instructions will be given them and inquiries will be answered, just as the city schools now do.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 19.—Well, congress adjourned, but they went down appropriating, and some of them are going to find in November that they have just appropriated themselves out of a job.

They killed the sales tax; now what alibi are they going to offer for that? It's proving a life saver for Mississippi. They keep building more roads, certainly not for the automobilists. Guess it's just to provide room for folks "thumbing" their way somewhere.

Americans used to use their forefinger to "point with pride." Now it's their thumb, "to register hope."

Police Brutality Is Given Airing At Mineola, N. Y.

Thirteen Of Nassau County Officials And Officers Suspended Result Of Probe

YOUNG PRISONER WAS MISTREATED

Tales Of Severe Beatings At Hands Of Police Told By Companions Of Dead Bandit

(International News Service)

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 19. — A story of police brutality used in the dreaded "third degree" that resulted in the death of Hyman Stark, 20, suspected bandit, was unfolded under oath by many witnesses at the John Doe inquiry which lasted until an early hour today.

The probe ended with 13 men and officials of the Nassau county police force ordered suspended and four of these held as material witnesses in the case after the sensational climax provided by Assistant District Attorney Martin W. Littleton. He accused a deputy police chief of boasting of an amazingly cold-blooded act of cruelty in connection with the torture of Stark.

Was Tough Job

Deputy Chief Frank J. Tappen, Republican leader of Oyster Bay, N. Y., Littleson said, came to him on the day Stark died after being "grilled" eight hours regarding the attack and robbery of a detective's mother.

"That's the toughest—I ever saw," Littleton quoted Tappen as saying then.

"I had to stand with one foot on his neck and one on his stomach and rock back forth."

Tappen, who sustained a sprained ankle Friday, is more than six feet tall and weighs more than 200 pounds.

Another dramatic scene was enacted in the crowded courtroom over which Justice Meier Steinbrink pre-

MONTREAL, July 19.—Sir Henry Worth Thornton, American-born president of the Canadian National Railways, will offer his resignation to the government on October 1. International News Service learned exclusively today.

Ill health was assigned as cause for the proposed action.

Sir Henry, a former University of Pennsylvania football player, and one time superintendent of the Long Island Railroad, and superintendent of the E. and A. Division of the Pennsylvania railroad at New Castle, Pa., became active in British railroad management shortly before the world war when he went to London.

Pittsburgh Man Named Defendant In Heart Balm

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Shirley H. Colligan, Pittsburgh girl, today named John Malcolm Dowling, uncle of Lois Moran, screen actress, defendant in a $50,000 heart balm suit filed in common pleas court.

In the bill of particulars Miss Colligan alleges Dowling kept company with her almost continuously "and frequently in the daytime", gave her several gifts which he told her to put in her "hope chest" and told her "we will get a little home in Ohio".

Bond for Dowling, against whom a capias was procured to insure his appearance, was fixed at $500. Miss Colligan said she obtained a divorce from her estranged husband, William McKnight, in January, 1929.

The $24,000 budget adopted for the year 1932 already has been exceeded by $2,000.

Police Go To See Prisoner In Ohio Crime

To Investigate Possible Connection With Campbell Slaying

SAY PRISONER WAS IN ROBBERY HERE

Acting on information carried in press dispatches today, New Castle and Lawrence county police authorities were making immediate plans to contact with Warren, O., police in an effort to determine whether or not Tony Rotuno, 31, alleged confessed murderer of a Newton Falls, O., chief of police, held in the Warren jail, played any part whatever in the shooting of Officer Clarence Campbell in the Seventh Ward payroll robbery a few weeks back.

Chief of Police John Haven said he would act with County Detective H. Martin Lee. Lee said he plans to confer with District Attorney John Powers this afternoon.

Trip Now Considered.

It is highly probable that Lee and other county authorities will go to Warren to view the gun which Rotuno carried. Interrogation there may lead to further confessions by Rotuno, the officials believe.

Rotuno was arrested after his pal had been slain by Warren police in a gun battle there Sunday morning. Warren police said a confession was made shortly after his capture. He also blamed his slain companion, Owen Hunter, Newton Falls, for participation in the Newton Falls killing.

The captured man served five years in a Pennsylvania reformatory, and a short time later he was sent to prison for a Seventh ward robbery here. Police have no knowledge as to what job Rotuno refers to, but they expect to learn that on their visit.

After the local holdup, Rotuno went to prison, escaped and later participated in a Sharon burglary only to be sentenced to prison again. How long he has been out is not known here.

DISCOVER TRIPLE CRIME IN FRANK HYDE HOME ON NORTH HILL TODAY

Believe Hyde Shot And Killed Wife And Daughter, Then Suicided—Police Break Into Home On Request —Gun Used In Two Of Slayings, Razor Used By Hyde To Cut Throat

Frank F. Hyde, 50, prominent gasoline service station proprietor, sometime in the early morning hours, probably mentally distressed by financial burdens, ended the lives of his wife, Mrs. Beatrice M. Hyde, aged 48, and his daughter Jane B. Hyde, aged 19, by revolver shots, in the second floor of their home, 605 Logan street, and then ended his own life, by cutting his throat and then plunging face down into a bathtub filled with water, in an evident successful attempt to complete wiping out his entire family.

The double murder and suicide evidently took place shortly after two o'clock this morning, which time has been rather definitely fixed by some of his service station attendants, as all the bodies of the victims were cold, showing that they had been dead some time.

Discovery Made

Discovery of the deaths of all the members of the family was due to the anxiety of Harold Ramsey, 419 Clenmore boulevard, an attendant at the North street gas service station of Mr. Hyde to get in touch with Mr. Hyde relative to some business matters. Discovery of the tragedy was made just after ten o'clock.

W. L. Wallace, a friend of Mr. Hyde happened into the North street service station seeking to talk to Mr. Hyde. About the same time, Mr. Ramsey needed to get in touch with Mr. Hyde relative to some gasoline.

Ramsey called on the telephone and could get no reply. He then decided to go up to the house, which he did. He rang the door bell twice and got no response.

Police Called In

Looking upstairs, he saw a light burning. This he knew was contrary to the habit of Mr. Hyde in such matters. Disturbed by this fact, he returned to the station, talked it over with Thomas Brownlee, another attendant of longer service, and they decided that the police should be called in.

Ramsey went to the police station, where Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch were detailed; then they went to the seventh ward and secured A. C. Hyde, a brother of Frank Hyde, and his wife; also Mrs. Mabel J. Beiersmith, a friend of the family, and returned to the Frank Hyde home, along with W. L. Wallace.

Break Into House

The officers, acting under the orders of the brother, forced the window into the living room from the front porch and the officers proceeded upstairs. As they made a turn to make the final steps to the second floor they saw a woman's feet protruding past the wall at the top of the steps. The reason for their search was quite apparent to them and Coroner Orville Potter was called as they continued the search with the men of the party and Mrs. Beiersmith.

The feet were those of Mrs. Hyde, who was lying with her head toward the west, face down, with her face and breast directly opposite the door of the bathroom. She was clad in her night clothing.

There was a trickle of blood on the floor near the breast. A look to the left into the bathroom told more of the horrible details of the affair. The bathroom floor and rug were a mass of blood. On the washstand laid an empty .32-caliber revolver.

In the bathtub, face down in the water, which was bloody and which almost covered the body, was the body of Mr. Hyde, clad in his underwear.

To Room of Daughter

A slight trail of blood led the searchers next to the room of the daughter, at the northwest and rear part of the home. On the bed, face up was Jane, the beautiful 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hyde, and in her right breast was a bullet hole from which blood trickled down onto the bed clothing. She was clothed in her night clothing. She had only recently returned home from the Southern Seminary, Buena Vista, Va., where she had been attending school.

Search of the home was then made by the coroner and police to determine whether Mr. Hyde, in contemplation of his rash act, had left a note or writing of some kind. Up until the time of going to press nothing of the kind had been found.

Bullet Mystery

An explanation of the five bullets evidently expended by Mr. Hyde in the course of his terrible act was

Make Plans To Notify Hoover

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Hoover will accept formal notification of his nomination for re-election here in Washington either August 8 or 15.

Rep. Bertrand Snell, of New York, Republican floor leader of the house, made this announcement today following a conference with Mr. Hoover who has just returned from his Rapidan camp. Snell was permanent chairman of the Republican convention in Chicago which renominated the executive and it will be his duty to deliver the notification speech.

Senate Passes Woodward Bill

Pinchot's Expressed Displeasure At Woodward Relief Bill, Is Ignored By Senate

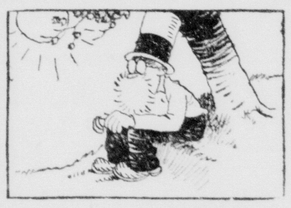

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 19.—Ignoring the expressed displeasure of Gov. Gifford Pinchot with the provisions of the Woodward bill which sets up a joint system for distribution of federal relief funds, the senate today passed the measure without a single dissenting vote.

The bill carries appropriations to the two fiscal officers and the governor for distribution of the anticipated funds and would make county commissioners and city councils responsible for the actual distribution, instead of allowing the full responsibility to rest with the executive.

The governor opposes the measure because the provisions of the federal bill, as it passed finally in congress, makes the governors of states solely responsible for the distribution.

FUGITIVE OF 9 YEARS RETURNS TO PRISON

Strange Case Is Reported Today

New Jersey Man Surrenders Telling Warden He Had No Peace

HAD BEEN LIVING AT BALTIMORE, MD.

Discusses Matter With Wife And Decides To Go Back To Jail

(International News Service)

TRENTON, N. J., July 19.—Colonel Edward B. Stone, warden of the state prison here, today said he would lay the strange case of John Barclay, 42, before the board of prison managers with a recommendation for parole.

Barclay, moderately dressed and carrying a bundle under his arm, rang the bell at the gate of the prison here last night and asked to see the warden.

"I don't suppose you remember me," he said, "but I'm John Barclay. I've come back to take my punishment."

Warden Amazed

Colonel Stone stared in amazement. Before him stood a man who escaped from Leesburg prison farm nine years ago while Stone was deputy warden there. Barclay had been serving a 15-to-30-year sentence for second degree murder as the result of a shooting in Elizabeth, N. J., in 1915.

"I have been living in Baltimore," Barclay said, "with my wife and two children. I had a good job—things were going well, but I couldn't have a day's peace with the thought of my sentence hanging over me.

"So I had a talk with my wife and we decided that the best way was for me to give myself up. Here I am."

Warden Stone placed Barclay in a cell in one of the wings instead of in "solitary confinement" as is the custom with recaptured convicts.

In the bundle Barclay carried a comb, razor and other articles he knew he would need as a convict.

MELLON IS SAILING FOR HOME WITH EUROPE'S DEBT PLEA

Reich's creditors contingent upon the abandonment by the Washington government of billions of dollars in war debt claims upon France, England and other debtors of the United States.

Exactly in what form Mellon is to present the European plea for debt reduction in view of the widespread hostility aroused by the "gentlemen's agreement" in the United States is, however, a great diplomatic mystery.

Among other things the ambassador will take up with President Hoover will be the forthcoming international economic and monetary conference in process of preparation by the League of Nations. He will present unofficially the invitation of the League council to the United States not only to attend but to be represented in the preliminary committee work and Europe's urgent request that the United States accept the invitation.

Mellon intends to spend several weeks in the United States. The embassy does not expect him back until early in September. He will be accompanied by his son, Paul, and during his absence Ray Atherton, counsellor of the embassy, will serve as charge d'affaires.

Biddlespacker, Lycoming, who declared that passage of the measure would ruin the state highway department and that in addition the majority of counties were not equipped for road-building, for which purpose the money would be returned to the counties.

The senate appropriations committee was expected to report at least some of the bills on the economy program today. Members of the committee indicated that adjournment this week appeared a practical impossibilty. The best that legislative leaders hoped for was a ten-day recess at the end of the week to collect data on probable federal aid obtainable. In the meantime, the governor could act on any bills passed.

Pinchot Asks $45,000,000.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot in a letter yesterday asked the Reconstruction Finance corporation for $45,000,000 for Pennsylvania's unemployed. He asked for $10,000,000 of that amount immediately to organize relief. In his appeal he placed the number of unemployed in the state at 1,150,000.

Other legislative action taken by the night session of the house included:

Passed on third reading the Perry bill reducing by $7,000 the appropriation made to the department of agriculture for an official egg-laying contest; also passed finally the Baldwin senate amendment to the constitution authorizing the governor to borrow money from the United States which has been set aside for loans to the states.

Passed finally the Sterling bill empowering the city of Philadelphia to levy and collect additional taxes for general revenue purposes.

Sent back to committee for amendments the Talbot $24,000,000 emergency relief bill.

Sent to committee for hearings this afternoon the three Staudenmeier bills providing for an increase in fees for motor trucks and a reduction in the size of trucks and trailers using state highways.

The Sterling bill permitting municipal subdivisions to negotiate temporary emergency loans during 1932 was recommitted in the senate. The upper branch voted for a passage of a bill sponsored by Rep. Grover C. Talbot, lapsing unexpended and unencumbered balances made in 1929 from the general fund.

There's a lot of loose talk about Europe repudiating her debts to this country, when as a matter of fact she wouldn't dream of such a thing; she just doesn't expect to pay them. —The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

DISCOVER TRIPLE CRIME IN HYDE HOME ON NORTH HILL TODAY

sought by the officers. But three had apparently been fully explained this afternoon. One each in the bodies of the wife and daughter and one about two and a half feet above the body of the wife in the wall of the hallway in which she was lying.

The order in which the deaths occurred is a matter of conjecture. The evidence is all to the effect that the husband did all the killing.

Theories In Case

There are a number of possible theories. One is that Mr. Hyde on his arrival in the early morning hours, evidently went to the bedroom of himself and wife, located at the front of the second floor of the home. There he evidently took off his clothing. His trousers were hanging on a rack near the door of the room into the hallway.

It is possible that he then went into the bathroom and that the urge to end his life came upon him and he cut his throat or did something else that attracted the attention of his wife and possibly the daughter. The wife probably came from the bed in which there is evidence that she had been sleeping down the hallway past the stairway to the door of the bathroom.

From the fact that there is a bullet hole in the wall opposite the bathroom door, it would have been possible for him to have shot his wife in the breast and then to have shot a second bullet after she had fallen, which entered the wall. There is the possibility that the daughter was awakened and rushed to the scene and received a shot in the breast and left a trail of blood as she made her way back to the room.

Believed Shot In Bed

However there is something that tends to discredit this theory as she was apparently lying in bed just as she would have been in her sleep. It seems possible that she died never knowing what happened, as there is a peaceful look on her face. The trail of blood might have been from a wound of the father.

There was some evidence that after Mr. Hyde cut his throat that he attempted to bind up the wound. Whether he did or not is a matter of utter conjecture. At any rate, he turned on the water in the tub, possibly before he had attempted any persons life and when he had killed the other members of the family and fatally wounded himself, had deliberately placed himself face down in the water to make sure of death.

The manner in which the time of the double murder and suicide was determined is through knowledge of the movements of Mr. Hyde on the part of Harold Ramsey and the other attendants of the service station.

According to Mr. Ramsey, it was sometime between 11:30 and 12 o'clock last night, when Mr. Hyde turned up at the North street station. He took his old Jewett car and drove over to the Jefferson street station.

He walked back to the North street station, where he remained for approximately two hours. He cleaned up his desk. He then took his daughter Jane's Durant car, which was at the North street station and left, apparently for home.

After Coroner Potter had completed his examination, the bodies were removed to the funeral home of the Mahoning Undertaking Company for further examination and preparation for burial.

Beautiful Home.

The Hyde home is located on the west side of Logan street between Park avenue and Boyles avenue, with somewhat of a beautiful outlook toward the Rural avenue district, being at the point opposite where the road starts down toward Neshannock avenue.

It is a modern type frame home of delightful design, entrance being into a small hall from which the stairs led to the upstairs. To the right is the living room with the dining room to the rear and the kitchen to the rear of the hallway. It is elegantly furnished.

In the upstairs is the hallway running from the room the Hydes occupied at the front of the house to the bedroom of the daughter at the west end of the house. The bathroom is to the south of the hallway and another bedroom, which was evidently the guest room to the north of the hallway. These rooms were finely furnished in keeping with the circumstances of the family.

The fact that the lives of the Hyde family were snuffed out in an instant and in such a tragic manner comes as a shock to their wide circle of friends. They were quite prominent in social circles, also in church circles and the act of the husband and father is not understandable to many persons.

According to some of the friends of the family, however, there has been evidence of late that Mr. Hyde was in a disturbed mental condition due to finances and it is believed that this was the reason for his rash act.

Coroner Probes Case.

Coroner Orville Potter stated early this afternoon, following a post mortem examination, that Mrs. Hyde had been shot through the chest near the heart, one bullet having been fired into her body. There were two bullet holes in the chest of the daughter, it was found, and the bullets were fired at close range, as there were also powder burns about the wounds.

No bullet wounds were found in Mr. Hyde's body. His wounds consisted of a deep cut across the throat and a slight cut alongside the neck.

Coroner Potter believes that Mr. Hyde cut his throat before he killed his wife and daughter.

He believes that Mrs. Hyde heard him in the bathroom after he had inflicted the wound on himself and that she arose to find out what he was doing. Hyde then got the gun and fired at her, possibly he had intended to shoot himself with it also, the bullet striking her in the center of the breast. Then going to his daughter's bedroom, he fired two bullets into her breast at close range. Returning to the bathroom, he jumped into the tub.

There was a great amount of blood leading from the bathroom to the daughter's bedroom and through the halls, leading to the assumption that Hyde had cut his throat and wandered about the hallway. There was blood on the daughter's night clothing which was not her own, the coroner stated.

Mrs. Lawrence Thompson of 327 Boyles avenue, a neighbor, told Coroner Potter that she heard several shots fired about 4 o'clock this morning and also heard a woman scream afterwards. She believed that the sounds had come from down over the hill and paid no attention to them.

Hyde, in ending his life, used a brown handled straight razor of the old style. Itw as found lying on the washstand where he had evidently dropped it after slashing his throat. The revolver was also found there.

Erie Robbers Get Coin From Pillow As Victim Sleeps

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., July 19.—Ira D. Stuckey's conviction that the safest place for one's money is under his pillow was shattered today.

While Stuckey slept, robbers pulled $400 in cash and a check from beneath his pillow. In another room they stole two diamond rings, valued at $300 from his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Clair.

"Mourning" rings are increasingly popular in London. These are rings in which the stone setting—usually turquoise, aquamarine or topaz—is surrounded by a narrow frame of black enamel or onyx. The young people of today do not recognize the mournful purpose for which the rings formerly were worn, say jewelers.

Correct this sentence: "I keep my hat on most of the time," said the bald guy, "because I'm afraid of catching cold."

ELEANOR LOUISE JOHN WEDS NAVY MAN MONDAY

Simple dignity marked the wedding ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. John, Winter avenue, when their daughter, Eleanor Louise, was united in marriage to Lt. Ralph Randolph Gurley of the United States Navy.

The ring service was read by Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church, in the presence of the immediate family. The bride was unattended and was given in marriage by her father. She wore the conventional white satin and carried a colonial bouquet of valley lillies and Killarney roses. Her veil had previously graced the heads of five brides in the family. The groom was attired in the white service uniform of a lieutenant in the navy.

The green and white tones of the decorations were emphasized in the appointments of the dining room, where Mrs. H. L. Marvin presided. The bride upheld the navy tradition by cutting the wedding cake with the sword.

Mrs. Gurley is a graduate of the New Castle High School and an alumna of Grove City College, with graduate work at Columbia University.

The groom has followed the traditions of his mother's family, whose men have distinguished themselves in the army and navy, his grandfather, Gen. John A. Kress, now living, retired at the age of 93. Lt. Gurley is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, class of 1922 and received the degree of Master of Science in Engineering at Columbia.

After the ceremony the bridal couple left on a motor trip, which will include a visit to Lt. Franklin K. Gurley, U. S. Army, brother of the groom, who is stationed at Fort Monroe, Virginia. After the first of August they will make their home at Annapolis, Md., where Lt. Gurley will be attached to the Naval Engineering Experimental Station.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Marvin, Leasure avenue, entertained at dinner in honor of the bridal couple.

Featuring the pre-dinner hours was picture taking, with many group pictures being snapped. Forty members and guests sat down to a most sumptuous menu at 6:30, with Mrs. H. G. Woodrow, teacher of the Philathea class giving the invocation.

Concluding dinner Mrs. Harry Cook arose in her place, and in well chosen words presented Mrs. Landis with a handsome linen table cloth as a farewell gift from the group. Most graciously Mrs. Landis responded to the speech, telling how regretfully she would break her relationship with the women of the church.

She told police who took her to a hospital two men with whom she rode in an automobile shot her and then pitched her from the car.

She furnished a description of the men.

Bus Permit Is Sought By Man

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—The application of Metro Volosen of twin Rocks to operate a bus service between Ebensburg and Indiana via Revlock, Belsano, Strongstown, and Nolo, was unopposed at a hearing before Examiner William E. Best of the Public Service Commission here today.

Testimony showed that there is no means of transportation between these places at present, making it difficult for farmers and residents of the small communities to reach either Indiana or Ebensburg.

Although Volosen produced four witnesses, John McFadden, Oliver McDonald, both of Twin Rocks, Louis Beckey and J. G. McCleary, both farmers living near Belsano, who regarded the proposed service as necessary, Examiner Best secured an admission that there is no assurance of the business being a financial success.

Volosen explained he intended to operate three trips over the 26-mile route daily and more if business warranted.

Kiwanians Are Guests At Butler

Fourteen New Castle Kiwanians were the guests of the Butler Kiwanis club Monday afternoon and evening at the beautiful Butler Country Club, when nine Kiwanis clubs of the surrounding district gathered to enjoy a golf match and a dinner-program afterward.

A Butler Kiwanian delivered the principal address at the session in the Country Club home at night.

HANDY

"I keep upon my kitchen table a small stone jar 4½ inches across and 5½ inches deep," says a housewife. "In this I keep knives, forks and a can opener that are used so often while preparing a meal. I do not have to stop and open a drawer when my hands are in the dough, or I wish to stir something. The utensil I want is always in sight and reach."

NON-STICK SHORTENING

No one enjoys having shortening stick to the measuring cup. To avoid this, always break eggs into the measuring cup first, then transfer them to the beating dish. This method leaves a coating of egg white around the inner surface of the cup. Now measure wour shortening and you will find that it leaves the cup with scarcely a trace remaining.

THE PAST CONGRESS

CONGRESS at last decided to call it a session's work. It has made a record of 224 days, and the members were as glad to get away as the country was to have them. This long and wearying contest was in large part due to lack of effective leadership. Up to the last moment the two houses were clashing over important measures. But the Relief bill finally got through, and so did the Home Loan bill, with Senator Glass's currency expansion appendix.

But there has been some substantial achievement. The Reconstruction measure, the Glass-Steagall banking law, the tax, economy and farm loan acts and the relief act are examples. The president vetoed the original Garner-Wagner relief bill, and saved the taxpayers from superfluous bond issues; and the Democratic tariff bill as well. Furthermore, four objectionable bills failed to get beyond the house—the Goldsborough inflation proposal, practically headed off by Senator Glass's measure, the Philippine independence bill, the cash bonus bill and the Muscle Shoals bill. Knowledge that a veto awaited them helped to determine their fate. Unfortunately the ratification by the senate of the World Court protocol was lost in the shuffle. It should be taken up promptly at the next session.

One thing is certain. The end of the session leaves the president in a stronger position than ever. The American people can not fail to realize the debt they owe to him—not only for what he did, but for what he prevented.

DOWN TO EARTH

In the Democratic convention of 1924 Will Rogers received two votes as the party's nominee for the presidency. In 1928 he received four votes, and at the last convention he got twenty-two. At this rate—an increase of 550%—he is bound to get the nomination in 1940. Hence the anxiety of the admirers of the Sage of Claremore to speed up the "Stop Rogers" movement.

Will Rogers in the white house might do the country a lot of good. But what would it do to him? He'd have to give up chewing gum for dignity's sake. He'd have to give up polo for safety's sake. He'd have to maintain silence for diplomacy's sake. In other words, he just would not be Will Rogers and the country would be in the dilemma of having elected a man who did not exist.

Can you imagine Rogers taking congress seriously? Can you imagine a presidential message that every one would read? It would be revolutionary. And these are not the times for radical departures.

No. Let Will continue to be our public philosopher. Let him stay out of politics. We have enough funny public officials as it is.

Rogers must forget vaulting ambition. He must remain as the public philosopher. He must stay down to earth.

NO GREEK MARATHON RUNNER IN OLYMPICS

Absence from the Greek team of an entry for the Marathon race in California breaks with modern Olympic traditions rather than with the ancient. For the classic games at Elis did not include the long-distance endurance contest. It came later when the national genius developed it and named it for the battle of Marathon. After that victory a wounded soldier ran all the way to Athens to announce the defeat of the Persians.

Unfortunately the feat is better remembered than the identity of the man. The best historians suggest that he was Thersippus of Eurodae or, more probably, one Eucles. Upon delivering the message he fell dead from his injuries. This fate has caused confusion in the popular mind which ascribes the achievement to Pheidippides. He ran 140 miles from Athens to ask the Spartans for aid in crushing the Persians. That Pheidippides's mission also had a fatal ending is an erroneous inference which Robert Browning perpetuated in a poem, we read.

Thus long-distance running over rough country was probably common enough in an era which lacked other means of communication. But these couriers had a practical motive. Their undertaking was not a competition with somebody else, nor was it a form of sport. In fact, Greek athletes paid considerable attention to beauty and grace, two qualities which are impossible in the gruelling run of more than 25 miles.

It was in the revival of the Olympic Games at Athens in 1896 that the Marathon race was a recognized track and field event. Fittingly enough it was won by Loues, a Greek peasant. When he entered the stadium a victor, the spectators let loose a remarkable ovation. Men jumped to their feet and shouted lustily; women tore off their jewelry to fling in the path of the conqueror. A hotelkeeper gave him an order for 365 free meals and a street urchin pressed forward to promise to shine Loues's shoes gratis for the rest of his life.

Persons old enough to recall the occasion 36 years ago will probably regret that the team from Hellas at Los Angeles this year enrolls no possible successor to the indomitable Loues. But the loss may be mitigated if it means that Greece is going back to the old conception of athletics as a partial expression of human gracefulness prevailing when the Olympic Games had a religious character. America might well cultivate a similar ideal. Our sports have been deficient in aesthetic appeal. We need to combine the blithesome with the lithesome in physical training.

The Rebellion of Mother
To Live Her Own Life
Against the Children

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Wonder how Grace Morgan is getting along with her family these days?

Wonder how they liked that article she wrote for the magazine?

I saw it in Scribner's and I've been wondering ever since.

She talked right out. She put down in cold black print many things that parents usually keep to themselves. She started right out by saying:

"It is a common belief, with long traditions behind it, that children draw a man and his wife closer together. I stoutly deny this fact. Except economically, which means the necessity of sharing everything with them and sacrificing one's own desires and comforts in a thousand ways, children do not bind a man and wife together; not even spiritually."

* * *

What irritates Mrs. Morgan is the fact that children of today don't marry young. Home is too comfortable and they stay there. Letting father and mother support them. Taking the best bedroom. Using the living room for callers. Getting jazz on the radio when father and mother want symphonies. Wearing out the family car. Complaining about the meals. And looking on the old folk as "pig-headed," "old-fashioned" or 'quaint."

Grace Jones and Jim Morgan married when THEY were young; he was 23 and she was 18 when they left their families to settle down for themselves. And when they were as old as their children are now they had their families well started. They left their own parents to peace and to each other while they were still young and she wonders 'if present-day parents are not entitled to freedom from family cares while they are still able to enjoy it." At 45," says she, "I am tired of my children. I want to shift the burden."

* * *

But do the children want to be shifted? They do not. So, one day, when daughter lost her temper and said to mother, "Who is living my life?" mother replied, "What about your father and me living our lives?" Daughter wept and mother was unhappy. But when her husband came home she felt exalted, as if she had struck a blow for him, and she "had again the feeling of facing an adventure, a feeling akin to the adventurous plunge into marriage."

She has ousted the children from Jim's easy chair. She has put daughter in the back bedroom and taken the biggest bedroom for herself and Jim. She listens to the kind of radio music she likes and tonight she's having Jim favorite kidney pie for dinner and if the children don't like it, that's just too bad. And after this, they'll have first claim on the family car.

Mother has rebelled. She has declared her independence at last. And I wonder and wonder what the children in the Morgan family are thinking these days. I'm sure they are angry. And maybe they're sulky. And, of course, they don't like it. . . . But deep down underneath, if any of Grace Morgan's spirit is in them, I'll bet they're secretly proud of mother.

Just Folks

COURTSHIP

If I were courting Nellie now,
As once I did long years ago,
Before the silver found her brow
And time had touched my crown with snow,
I'd have to say the self-same things
I uttered, Oh, so bravely then,
And woo with little promisings
The lady of my heart again.

Those days of courtship, swiftly flown,
Lie deep in six and twenty years,
And in that time how much we've known
Of pleasure's smiles and sorrow's tears!
But still were I a gay young blade
And she as light of heart as then,
Those countless promises I made
As bravely I'd repeat again.

What if the purse be light today?
'Twas just as light the day we wed.
And none there was could truly say
What difficulties lurked ahead.
But many a carol gay we've sung,
Though grief has often found our door,
And were I twenty-five years young
I'd woo and promise as before.

EVERY MAN WHO TRULY DESIRES

Peace of mind must keep his conscience alive and alert.
Character cannot place a low value on moral trifles.
Success must make an effort at least as great as the success he desires.
A life free from criticism must be content to do nothing unusual.
Serenity must deal with his difficulties on the day they are born.
Faith must be willing to use it before he can prove it.
Excellence of performance must have patience in practice.

KIND WORDS FROM SHARON

Fred L. Rentz, publisher of The New Castle News, will this month observe the 50th anniversary of his entrance into the newspaper field. It was July 30th, 1882, that he started as "devil" in the composing room of The New Castle News. His rise was rapid and for more than a quarter of a century he has been president and managing editor, as well as one of the owners.

It is so unusual for anyone to serve half a century with an institution that friends from all parts of the country have already begun to shower him with congratulations. When he 10 years ago observed the 40th anniversary of his entrance into the newspaper business he was tendered a banquet in the Masonic temple, New Castle, but because of business conditions his golden jubilee will be very quietly and informally observed.

Although he has been with The News for half a century, Publisher Rentz has just passed the three score mark, for he entered the publishing business as a mere lad.—News-Telegraph.

HIS SURPRISE

A storekeeper in South Georgia freely gave credit to a young negro, tided him over so that the colored boy could make his crop. It turned out to be a good year and young Rastus made more than enough money to pay his account.

As soon as he had paid his bill he went to a store across the street and bought quite a lot of goods for cash. The dealer who had given Rastus so much credit learned of this and the next time he saw him said:

"Rastus, I carried you over all spring and summer, and now you go across the street and buy stuff for cash. I want to know what's the idea?"

"Golly, Mistah Boss," replied Rastus in a surprised tone, "Ah didn't know you-all sells for cash!"

Upshaw Called Ideal Leader Of Prohibition In Campaign

Georgia Orator Has Been Most Militant Of Dry Forces And Has Performed With Zeal In Efforts To Banish Liquor From Land

Nomination of former Representative Upshaw of Georgia as the Prohibition party's candidate for President is hailed by the nation as most appropriate. The militant Atlanta orator is credited with conspicuous zeal for the cause and rated as an untiring advocate of the dry law. Suggestion that he may retire in favor of Senator Borah arouses universal skepticism, because of the latter's long affiliation with the Republican party.

"Upshaw will add in large measure to the picturesqueness and the hazard and hilarity of a campaign that is already glittering and glamorous and cutting curlicues in the drab texture of our politics and traditions," in the opinion of the COLUMBIA (S. C.) STATE, which also comments: "If Upshaw is himself in this campaign, the country may confidently expect the most picturesque scrimmaging from stump, platform, pulpit, and every form of hustings that it has witnessed since Old Hickory or Uncle Abe faced and cowed to their will the unterrified democracy. For he is what they call sui generis, a law unto himself. Fluent as a tin whistle, he is never at a loss for a word, or for long strings of words. He has been haranguing all his life, whether shrilly espousing some reform in the red hills of Georgia, or trying to elevate the House of Representatives during those four terms of white-heat enthusiasm in the cause of prohibition."

"Like a wraith from the past," says the SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) UNION, "the figure of former Congressman Upshaw has emerged into the limelight as the Prohibition party's nominee for President. In national convention assembled at Indianapolis the small but unterrified dry party by a vote of 74 for Upshaw to 62 for his nearest competitor has pinned its presidential label on the proud breast of the stormy petrel of the Democratic minority in Congress from 1919 to 1927 and former highlight of the Anti-Saloon League. Unless Upshaw has changed remarkably since his unappreciative Georgia constituents retired him from public life six years ago, the Prohibition party might search far and wide without finding a more picturesque and colorful standard-bearer.His reputation for vitriolic oratory promises some lively campaigning, especially if he devotes some attention to certain dry notables, such as Dr. Clarence True Wilson, Deets Pickett and Dr. Dinwiddie, who have been rather indifferent, if not actually hostile, to the idea of launching a dry ticket."

"As for the effect of the Upshaw oratory," says the BALTIMORE SUN, "there may be some question. With Senator Borah as a candidate, the drys might really hope to drum up a substantial following by November, for whatever may be said of his inconsistencies, it cannot be denied that the Senator from Idaho carries great weight. But with Upshaw as the head of the ticket, the prospect for a huge mobilization of prohibition votes is by no means bright. The Prohibition party has never enjoyed the suffrage of more than 300,000 citizens in any Presidential campaign. It may get a much larger number in a year in which the major parties seem to have the drys on the run, but it would have to accumulate strength like a snowball to cut any really formidable figure in November."

"Upshaw is carrying the Prohibition banner," advises the ROANOKE TIMES, "and the place for prohibitionists is under that banner. This newspaper, for one, hails Mr. Upshaw's nomination with satisfaction and approval. He is one who does not merely skulk and show his teeth, as does Borah, but he has the courage of his convictions though knowing well that those convictions run counter to those held by a majority of his countrymen. Mr. Upshaw has been an uncompromising supporter of the prohibition amendment and all dry legislation. His nomination for President on the Prohibition ticket is perfectly logical."

"Upshaw is better entitled to the Prohibition nomination than Borah, if anyone wants it," thinks the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, while the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL declares: "The nation has not forgotten the effort he made when Georgia's representative in Congress to persuade his colleagues to be as dry in their personal habits as their votes and pretenses. He acquired the name of the Great Pledge Passer because he went unceasingly among them entreating them to sign a total abstinence paper. If they had followed his counsel it would not later have become the charge of customs officers at southern ports to look the other way when dry congressmen came back home with leaking suitcases from junkets to wet nations. To derrick such an enthusiasm from the ticket in the name of party expediency will do the cause a violent wrong, and we hope he is permitted to follow through to the end. He may not get many votes, but flaming zeal in missionizing effort will be rewarded. Besides, whatever courted vanity takes his place will get a beating."

"Accepting the Prohibition nomination," remarks the MORGANTOWN DOMINION-NEWS, "stalwart Upshaw quickly pledged himself to withdraw if Senator Borah or some other outstanding figure should agree to lead a third party dry campaign. Here is an authentic example of the sacrifice supreme. Here is demonstrated the capacity for self effacement of a true devotee of The Cause. Considered rationally, of course, Mr. Upshaw sacrifices nothing by a possible withdrawal. If there ever was a time in the recent history of this country when a Prohibition third party hasn't the ghost of a show to get to first base, that time is now, when anti-prohibition sentiment approaches its peak."

"Assuming that he will stick on the ticket, Mr. Upshaw should be in his element during the next four months; he has been a professional prohibitionist time whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary," says the BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD. As to Senator Borah, the NEWARK EVENING NEWS voices the judgment: "When the people of the United States arise in their wrath, fired by a great moral indignation, and defy the Republicans and the Democrats to force beer down their throats and revive the forgotten and forbidden trade in alcoholic beverages against the express will of the common people—then Mr. Borah will run for President. And probably be elected, too. That will be the same year that the people rise and demand bigger taxes, lower pay for longer working hours, snow on the Fourth of July and poison ivy as the national flower."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

OH! WELL.

A single word may change the value of a letter. One word out of character may do irreparable damage. You may have seen the short talking movie which showed a young couple entering a room in which a fine looking old lady sat before a fireplace. The room itself was furnished as one would expect the private sitting room of a member of the Four Hundred to be. A cat was sleeping on the rug. The little old lady, with her well-combed, snow-white hair and her aristocratic looking face, sat erect like a queen, reading. The young couple went into this room as into a temple of quietness and culture.

"How are you feeling today, mother?" asked the girl.

"Lousy," said the white-haired, refined old lady.

RIGID RULES

Some wives are insistent that meals be served at the same hour each day.

And, if a certain time has been agreed upon, the routine should be observed.

But there are times when a husband should be forgiven for his failure to conform to the general rule, especially when he has given ample notice that he may be late.

In such case he should not be met with a rebuff.

Neither should he expect that upon his late arrival he should receive as well prepared and perfect meal as usual.

If his tardiness is the result of important business matters he should receive some consideration.

But if violation of the meal routine is caused by the time he spends in some line of amusement he should be a good sport enough to take what is easily prepared.

But even though some men are willing to wait on themselves or eat what they can find in the refrigerator or on the pantry shelf, certain wives are always irritated when they fail to appear at the appointed meal time.

There would be fewer disturbances in homes if both husbands and wives were more fair in their requirements as to time and kind of meals.

North Beaver Schoolboys Set High Mark In Contest

Stepping ahead of 41 competing schools in Pennsylvania in a statewide farm crop achievement contest, North Beaver township high school's group of entrants displayed ability which brought to them the fourth honor place in the competition. The Pennsylvania State College, sponsor of the events, has just announced the winners.

For the past year the North Beaver township school's vocational agricultural department has been co-operating with Penn State's agricultural division in a research teaching of field crops as measured by tests of intelligence and achievement in the 45 schools.

Showing Proves Skill

The test was conducted by giving the Otis intelligence quiz, after which a farm crop achievement test was given during the early part of the year. Then in the spring again another farm crop achievement test was sponsored.

The Mt. Jackson school entrants registered a 93.8 percentage in the intelligence test while the state average was 93.3. In the first farm crop achievement examination last October the boys rated 47.9 while the state average was 42.0. Last May's farm crop experiment found the North Beaver boys rating 109.8 per cent although the state average was but 73.2 per cent.

For the individual pupil achievement in the tests the Mt. Jackson boys rated 61.9 per cent while the average for every participating youth was 21.2 per cent.

Youths Participating

The North Beaver youths who helped to carry their school to the fourth place position were Wilbur Chambers, Seth Daugherty, Francis Harding, Walter Hopper, Judd Lamson, Samuel Macaluso, Thomas McCullough, Harold McKim Arthur Seamen, Warren Seamen, Dick Thompson, Glenn Tindall, Wayne Walker and Lloyd Wear.

Those who ranked highest from here were Arthur Seamen, Wilbur Chambers, Glenn Tindall, Thomas McCullough and Lloyd Wear.

Harry Bartges, supervisor of agricultural activities at North Beaver, directed the boys' work here in cooperation with State's rural education department.

Three Bandits In Brooklyn Pawnshop Get $35,000 Loot

All Victims Made To Strip And Bandits Grab $35,000 And Make Getaway

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Three bandits invaded a Brooklyn pawnshop today, forced four men to strip to prevent pursuit and, after a 20-minute wait, escaped with $35,000 in loot from the safe.

Morris Gruskin, the proprietor, and two plumbers at work on pipes, were in the shop when the bandits entered. They forced the trio into a back room and ordered them to remove their clothes.

When they were done, the robbers demanded the safe combination, but Gruskin said his son, Joseph had it.

"Well, we're in no hurry," one of the bandits said, and all three sat down, guns in their hands.

Twenty minutes later Joseph entered. He, too, was ordered to strip and then was forced to open the safe. The bandits cleaned it out, taking $10,000 in cash and jewelry valued at $25,000.

Nation Swelters Due To Terrific Heat Wave Today

Rocky Mountains And Pacific Coast Coolest Places In United States Today

MERCURY CLIMBS CLOSE TO 100

(International News Service)

Blistering heat again swept over the United States today, only the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast regions being exempt from high temperatures.

With the mercury mounting to the 100-degree mark in states of the Central Plains and Mississippi Valley, government meteorologists declare no general relief was in sight.

Meyer Shimderman, 51, was the first victim of the current torrid spell. He was found dead in his tailor shop in Chicago. Numerous drownings and prostrations were reported in the eastern half of the country.

Temperatures about noon today in various cities follow:

Chicago 92, Washington 83, New York 79, Cleveland 80, Springfield, Ill., 93, Detroit 87, Pittsburgh 85, Denver 84, Los Angeles 60, Harrisburg, Pa., 86, Philadelphia 88, Columbus, O., 80, St. Louis 91, Kansas City 92, Atlanta 88, New Orleans 88, Louisville, Ky., 87.

In many sections the temperature rose with phenomenal speed. Indications were that some parts of the Rocky Mountain sector might not escape the heat this week, as they did last.

Within the last 24 hours 102-degree readings were reported at Williston, N. D., Moorehead, Minn., Pierre, S. D., and San Antonio, Tex. Rapid City, S. D., Huron, S. D., Miles City, Mont., Abilene, Tex., and Shreveport, La., were among the cities which experienced 100-degree heat.

Bitter Fights May Result On Waterway Plan

Treaty Signed By Canada And United States Must Yet Run Gauntlet

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The treaty signed by Canada and the United States for building of the gigantic St. Lawrence ship route must run the gauntlet in both nations before the project to open the interior of the two nations to ocean liners can be realized.

Although President Hoover and his aides hailed the completion of the treaty as a forward step for both nations, rumblings of opposition which may provoke bitter fights were heard today.

Pinchot Claims Error Made In Economy Bill

Governor Points Out To Senator Harry B. Scott Error Of $15,000,000

IS OPPOSED TO WOODWARD BILL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 19.—Carrying his fight against the House $22,275,000 economy program to the Senate where the program reposes in the appropriation committee, Gov. Gifford Pinchot today sent a letter to Senator Harry B. Scott, its chairman, charging an error of $15,000,000 had been made in the total of actual cuts which can be effected.

The governor also expressed his displeasure today with the provisions of the Woodward Senate bill, scheduled for final action today, which would take away from his office sole power in distribution of federal funds which may become available under provisions of the Relief bill now before President Hoover The governor already has made application for $45,000,000 as Pennsylvania's share of the national total to be used in aiding the idle.

Ridiculous Bill

"I have heard of a good many ridiculous bills in my life but never one more ridiculous than that," the governor said of the Woodward bill. The measure would make the two fiscal offices share with the governor in distributing the federal funds.

In the letter to Senator Scott the governor asserted that the figure out of which the cut of $22,275,000 was made was $15,902,678 above the amount of money available for spending. The amount of money provided by the cut is not $22,275,084 but only $6,372,405, the governor wrote.

A detailed ten-page statement showing departmental appropriations, actual expenditures, and proposed cuts accompanied the letter.

In closing, the governor again pledged his aid in any economy program which "will do more good than harm."

Effects Outlined

In addition to the governor's letter, Senator Scott also received a 31-page document from Dr. E. B. Logan, the budget secretary, detailing the effect the proposed cuts will have upon the various departments.

In each instance, Logan contended, to cut more than the total contemplated by the governor will seriously curtail all the vital functions of the state government's operation.

The Logan total showed there is no inclination on the part of the administration to recede from the cuts already proposed which total but $5,360,000 instead of the $22,275,000 program approved by the House.

LIFT PEANUT OUT OF BABY'S LUNG, CHILD NOW HOME

A delicate bronchoscope in the hands of a skilled surgeon on Monday removed a peanut lodged in the lung of two-year-old Wilda Mae Heasley, of Wheatland, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Heasley, former residents here.

Mrs. Heasley, the former Miss Viola Sankey, Laurel avenue, had her daughter hurried there after the peanut had lodged in the child's lung. The infant already has been removed to the Wheatley's Wheatland home.

Thousand Hear Orchestra At Castlewood

One thousand people thronged Castlewood's main thoroughfare last night to listen to the musical concert given by the Castlewood orchestra.

In addition to the wonderful numbers by the orchestra there were several beautiful duets sang by the Misses Helen Hill and Helen Houk, also by the Misses Edna Myers and Helen Houk.

During the intermission John M. Houk announced that the league baseball game scheduled for Tuesday night between the Castlewood and Malizia clubs would be played at the Castlewood field instead of Malizias' field, and that the Mahoning A. Another band concert will be given in the near future, the date and place to be announced later.

Mitten Records Fail To Convict Commission Head

Committee Scans Records For Six Years, But Fail To Find Substantiating Evidence

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 19.—An examination of the books of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company for the year 1922-28 by the senate investigating committee, today had failed to substantiate charges that William D. B. Ainey, chairman of the public service commission, received money from Thomas E. Mitten, late head of the P. R. T. and the Mitten management.

The inquiry was to be resumed today. Books of the Mitten management for the six-year period will be examined, and E. L. Mitten, Philadelphia, treasurer of Mitten management, was to be questioned.

The committee, sitting in its second session last night, examined the Transit Company's books for the six years and also questioned George W. Davis, Philadelphia, treasurer of the concern. Senator William S. Rial, committee chairman, said there was nothing in the books to connect Ainey in any way with the charges of A. A. Chapman.

Chicago Slaying Proves Baffling To Authorities

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 19.—Into the occult are of the fortune-teller police dipped today, seeking to extract therefrom some clue which may solve the mystery behind the murder of George A. Carl, 42-year-old grocer.

Fantastic as any of Edgar Allen Poe's strangest tales was this baffling crime. It was the enactment of a story foretold in three picture cards drawn by the victim's wife, Mrs. Vera Frances Carl, sixty hours before she found her husband's body slumped over a chair in the rear of his grocery store.

In their efforts to apprehend the person who sent a bullet crashing through the grocer's brain Saturday night, official investigators were following every thread interwoven in this tangled and wierd mystery.

They were holding for further questioning the widow's brother, Ivan Grilec, 38, who, said the police, had sold Carl an insurance policy last March.

Before it is too late some museum should add a dividend to its collection of rarities.—The Ashland Daily Independent.

City's Postal Force Inaugurates Layoffs

First Leave Period Ordered By Washington Started At Office

The first of the five-day furlough periods for clerks, carriers and other employes at the New Castle post office has been commenced, Postmaster Lake S. MacNab today announced.

The office's force of substitute postmen has been recalled for duty, and likely will be employed most of the time. Substitute clerks will be recalled when that branch of the service launches its vacation.

Under the government's new rule postal employes must take a 24-day leave without pay during the fiscal year that runs from July 1 this year to July 1, 1933.

No changes in carrier deliveries will be made necessary, said Superintendent of Mails R. A. Steen. The routes will be covered without any trouble under a new schedule that has been drawn up.

The leaves are a part of the government's program of economy and have a nation-wide effect.

School Sanitation Will Be Improved

School Division Of State Is Conducting Sanitary Survey This Summer

HARRISBURG, July 19.—The sanitary survey of the various communities of the commonwealth, conducted by the health officers, is not the only activity that engages the State Department of Health at this season of the year.

The school division, of the State Department of Health, takes advantage of the vacation time to conduct a sanitary survey of the schools, and the monthly reports of John G. Ziegler, supervisor school sanitation, and John W. German, his assistant, at this time of the year, are filled with notations concerning the activities of this campaign.

Beginning with the first of June and continuing steadily until the opening date in the fall, the field work of this school division is directed toward an improvement in the sanitary condition of all schools in the state, that do not fully measure up to the requirements set up by this branch of the school health work.

Personal inspections and surveys were made in 12 counties of the state during June, and the work will be actively continued in other counties during July and August. During the latter month, there will be a concerted effort to finish up the work of the survey for the year.

Not only is there personal contact established with school boards and directors, but required sanitary improvements in conditions and buildings, are brought to the attention of the school authorities by correspondence, in various districts throughout the state.

The school division is in possession of very accurate knowledge concerning the shortcomings and sanitary needs of many school districts and the efforts of the department are constantly directed toward improvement.

No Publicity On Loans Until Next Congress

President Gives Statement In Connection With Relief Bill Approval

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 19—There will be no publicity on the operations of the reconstruction finance corporation until after election, it was indicated Monday as the White House released a statement by President Hoover announcing the president would sign the $2,122,000,000 unemployment relief bill.

Past and future transactions of the R. F. C. will remain a closed book, until December at least, according to the interpretation of the chief executive, in spite of the demands of Speaker Garner and house Democrats for full publicity upon federal loans.

In announcing he would sign the bill, Mr. Hoover referred to the "possible destructive effect upon credit institutions by the so-called publicity clause," for which the house battled, and said it had been "neutralized by the declaration of senate leaders of all parties that this provision is not to be retroactive and that the required monthly reports," must be held confidential, "unless otherwise ordered by the congress when in session."

Unless called in extra session, congress will not convene until December.

The White House also indicated Mr. Hoover would sign the $125,000,000 home loan bank bill with the Borah-Glass billion dollar currency inflation amendment, passed Saturday by Congress as its final act of the 72nd Congress.

Captain Courson Was Not Legally Camp Commander

Florida Records Show One Of Maillefert's Alleged Slayers Not In Charge

COURSON PLACED IN BAD LIGHT

Prison Camp Superintendent Says Late New Jersey Youth Was "Hard To Handle"

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 19.—Captain George W. Courson, now under indictment at Jacksonville for the alleged "torture murder" of Arthur Maillefert, young New Jersey convict, was illegally in command of the Sunbeam prison camp at the time the boy strangled in a sweat box, International News Service learned today.

State records disclosed Courson was never commissioned as a camp captain or even as a prison guard. The law of Florida provides that only a commissioned officer or guard may act in a post of command at a prison camp.

No Official Position.

The illegal status of Courson, when he whipped young Maillefert and imposed the punishment that resulted in his death, was confirmed by Captain B. H. Dickins, superintendent of state road prisons. He admitted Courson had no legal right to take command of the camp, and held no official position when he inflicted the "torture chamber" punishment on Maillefert.

This revelation placed Courson in a peculiar position.

He had no legal authority to order Maillefert to work or to punish him even in the form prescribed by state law than an ordinary bystander. Authorities were agreed the legal status of Courson would play an important part in his trial on a first degree murder charge for the alleged slaying of Maillefert.

While Dickins was frank to disclose the fact that Courson had no right even to enter the camp, let alone command it, the prison superintendent condemned Maillefert. He said the New Jersey youth was a "bad actor and one of the worst prisoners we ever had."

Dental Plates Are Not Taxable

Ruling Is Made That Articles Do Not Come Under Head Of Jewelry

The bureau of internal revenue made public today a ruling with respect to the taxability under the new manufacturers' excise tax of certain articles used by the dental profession. The question propounded to the bureau was:

A ruling is requested as to whether or not the following articles are subject to the tax imposed by section 605 of the revenue act of 1932:

Removable dental bridges containing gold.

Gold crowns and crowns containing gold.

Partial upper palatal bars, containing precious metals.

Partial lower lingual bars, containing precious metals.

Full upper or lower plates containing precious metals.

Fixed dental bridgework, containing precious metals.

Orthodontic appliances, containing precious metals.

It is the opinion of the bureau that articles of the class enumerated are not within the contemplation of that part of section 605 of the revenue act of 1932 which imposes a tax on "articles made of, or oramented, mounted or fitted with, precious metals or imitations thereof * * *." It is therefore held that the articles specified are not subject to tax..

Troop Starts On Bivouac As Tour Nears End

Many Visitors Were In Camp Sunday From New Castle And Vicinity

TROOPERS TAKE MUCH NEEDED REST

By FOREST L. FLORIDA
(Troop Clerk)

COLEBROOK, July 19.—With the last week of the tour of duty at Mt. Gretna getting under way with a strenuous program ahead of them, most of the troop members observed Sunday as a day of rest, and there was plenty of "bunk fatigue" for the majority of the men.

Monday morning, the members of the troop, along with the other units encamped here will start on a bivouac, and news from the front will be hard to get out, as the troop will be extremely busy, tactical problems and mounted hikes which will last all day long being on the program.

Except that it was necessary to put on extra K. P.'s in the kitchen due to the large group of visitors from home over the week end, so that no one would be over-taxed and the work all done, Sunday was extremely quiet with the boys.

Take Moving Pictures

Louis B. Round and Capt. John B. Brettell, former commander of the troop, members of the Troop's Civilian Sponsoring committee arrived Saturday and spent the week end with the Troop. Mr. Round brought a movie camera with him and the troop can look forward to seeing themselves in action when they get back home.

During the "non-coms" meeting held following mess on Saturday evening, Mr. Round spoke and expressed his high regard for the troop and urged the men to keep the fine reputation of the troop inviolate, stressing the point that Troop F is the key troop of the regiment.

The troop this year is badly handicapped in several ways. It is now three years old and the expiration of the original enlistments in this troop, which means that we have eliminated several who have been tried and failed and refused to permit them to re-enlist and several have been lost due to a number of reasons beyond the control of the troop or the men. This has necessitated the enlisting of a large number of recruits and we have in camp twenty men who have never had camp experience. In addition to that we have several new non-commissioned officers woh are serving as such at camp for the first time and these two deficiencies mean that much greater effort is being put forth to retain our standing or to better it this year.

In addition to Mr. Round and Captain Brettell we had the following visitors in camp who arrived Saturday: Corporal Earl L. Miller, of the National Guard Reserve, assigned to this troop; Miss Martha Allen, Mrs. John H. McNicholas, mother of Corp. E. J. McNicholas and his wife and sister Margery and Miss Flora Shaffer, Clarence Patterson, a former member, who now resides in Media, Pa., stopped over for a short visit enroute to Franklin, Pa., accompanied by his wife and baby. This makes a total of 18 visitors we have had so far, with fifteen remaining in camp over Sunday. Every one of them have expressed their pleasure at the fine treatment accorded them by everyone and are enjoying themselves.

We received some very sad news Saturday. In a long distance call from New Castle, Capt. Bintrim was informed of the sudden death of Earl C. Ruby's mother. Mr. Ruby was immediately secured a furlough and through the kindness of Mr. Round was driven to Harrisburg where he caught a late train home. The sincere sympathy of the troop goes to Mr. Ruby and his family.

WANTS LAW TO CURB AIRPLANE THEFTS

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Mich., July 19.—An amendment to the National Motor Vehicle Theft act of 1919 to include aircraft was sought by Louis M. Hopping, assistant district attorney, in a letter to Representative Clarence McLeod.

A flaw in the law prevents the federal government from proceeding against persons who steal airplanes "and any other aircraft" be added.

Two airplane thefts in this district prompted the request.

House Members Take Action In Fund Transfer

House Concludes First Step In Appropriating $800,000 To General Fund

OPPOSITION FOR BILL WITHDRAWN

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 19. — Concluding its first step in providing the nucleus of a fund for unemployment relief and balancing the budget, the house today by a vote of 109 to 42 passed finally the bill to appropriate to the general fund the sum of $800,000 from the foreign fire insurance fund.

Chief opposition to the measure had been withdrawn. Last week, Rep. Charles W. Staudenmeier fought the bill on the floor at the instance of the firemen in the state whose relief associations receive benefits from the fund.

Agree On $800,000

Last night, Staudenmeier said today, fire association leaders agreed that $800,000 could be appropriated from the fund because the sum represents accumulations which can not be distributed. He agreed, therefore, to passage of the bill, which now goes to the senate.

The house resumed its work at 11 o'clock and first passed finally, and without dissent, the Sterling bill substituting a franchise tax on foreign corporations in lieu of the capital stock tax.

On motion of Rep. Hoopes, Berks, the bill of Rep. Lillith Wilson, also a Berks member, proposing an amendment to the constitution to permit amendments annually instead of every five years, was placed on the postponed calendar.

The Sterling bill authorizing the department of revenue to make regulations for the enforcement of the act requiring gasoline dealers to display prices of gasoline and taxes separately was passed finally.

ORDER TO EXECUTE NEGRO FORGOTTEN

(International News Service)

RALEIGH, N. C., July 19.—They sentenced Willie Rector, negro, to die for assaulting a white girl, and then forgot to execute him. And now, after being forgotten by the state for nine months, Willie must die unless executive clemency intervenes. He was supposed to be electrocuted last August, but due to a clerk's error the order for execution was never given.

Hoover Returns To Washington

Heavy Cordon Of Police Thrown Around White House Today

NO DEMONSTRATION BY BONUS ARMY

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Though a heavy guard was thrown about the white house today, there was an absence of bonus marchers or any attempt at a demonstration, as President Hoover returned to the executive mansion this morning.

The president's train was joined by four motorcycle policemen on the Virginia side of the Potomac river, and accompanied the official cars to the white house, where Mr. Hoover left his auto at a small side gate on executive avenue.

Stays In Camp

Mrs. Hoover did not accompany the chief executive to the capital but remained behind at their Rapidan fishing lodge.

Police explained that the extra cordon of police thrown about the white house grounds, was to prevent a recurrence of scenes of Saturday night, when hundreds of bonus marchers picketed the white house. At that time their action prevented the president from visiting the capital, as is the custom during the closing hours of the congress.

Off for Treasure Raid on Davey Jones

Twenty-one years ago the liner Merida (lower panel) went to Davey Jones' locker off Cape Henry, Va., carrying a cargo of $6,000,000 in gold and, it is believed, the crown jewels of the Emperor Maxmilian of Mexico to the bottom. In this era of depression that amount of treasure would come in mighty handy, so Captain Harry L. Bowdoin of New York, with a crew of 24 is going in search of it. The treasure seekers are shown above, and at right is one of the ultra-modern diving suits which will be used by the salvagers.

Annual "Big Push" For Guardsmen At Mt. Gretna Begins

Battle Lines Being Drawn For Mimic Warfare Over 20 Mile Front

CAVALRY WILL MAKE ATTACK

Citizen-Soldiers Welcome Ride In Army Trucks After Dusty Hike

(International News Service)

CAMP O'NEIL, MT. GRETNA, July 19.—The annual "big push" of the Pennsylvania national guard started today when more than 2,000 soldiers broke camp and started the march upon a mythical enemy.

Designated as the blues, the infantrymen were ordered to move toward Indiantown Gap, a distance of 20 miles, and to seek out a force of enemy cavalry with black for their color. The movement was executed under wartime conditions.

Rides Are Welcomed

To reach their objective before dusk in good condition it was necessary to commandeer all trucks on the reservation. The troops walked five miles and were carried in army trucks for the remainder of the distance. With full field packs strapped to their backs, and 20 miles of dusty road before them, the citizen-soldiers welcomed a ride.

The march began at daybreak when 60 trucks, many of which saw World War service, rumbled through the sleeping village of Mt. Gretna and lined up in the infantry camp area. First to move out were soldiers of the 111th infantry regiment of southeastern Pennsylvania under the leadership of Colonel Charles Meyers. They were taken in trucks northward through Annvilla, Belgrove, to a point near Harpers Tavern, where they finished the journey on foot.

The trucks went back toward the base at Mt. Gretna to pick up the 112th infantry with companies from western Pennsylvania armories, under command of Colonel C. Blaine Smathers, who had in the meantime left camp and marched a distance of five miles.

Go Into Bivouac

They were carried to a point just south of Indiantown Gap in South Mountain to join the 11th and went into bivouac.

There were only enough trucks to move one regiment at a time. It was necessary to move the troops in progressive steps. In spite of the fact that the trucks were old and the men not fully broken into the grind of a long march with full packs, the movement was conducted smoothly. Brigadier General Robert M. Brookfield, commander of the 56th infantry brigade, accompanied by his two aide-de-camps, Lieutenant George Asnip and Lieutenant Leighton F. Stradley, toured the line of march in a staff car, keeping in close contact with his troops.

Complete field radio equipment was carried along with the caravan. Lieutenant Joseph A. Lee, radio officer of the 111th, established communications with the 28th division headquarters here, ordering spare parts for trucks and other supplies.

Supplies Moved

Rolling field kitchens, water carts and supplies had been moved forward on the preceding day. When the troops reached the temporary camp site, tired and hungry, company cooks soon had the situation in hand. With 500 "pup" tents covering the hillside, the bivouac camp was an impressive sight.

Blank ammunition was issued. Somewhere near them is the enemy, the 103d cavalry regiment, with troops from eastern Pennsylvania, encamped.

The cavalrymen left the base at Colebrook Monday for a four-day stay in the field. They rode 20 miles the first day and were planning to attack the infantry forces at night. Details of the maneuvers and expected sham battle have been kept secret for the purposes of the problem.

Charles A. Wright, his father, an instructor at Temple University, says his son's eagerness to read the "funnies" before his father arrived for dinner led the child to learn to read at an age when most children are just beginning to study the alphabet.

Alan was able to write his name on a typewriter before he was three years of age.

Gov. Roosevelt Ends Vacation And Returns To His Duties In Albany

PLANS TO SPEAK ON PACIFIC COAST

(International News Service)

ALBANY, July 19. — Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to his desk at the Capitol today determined to dispose of pending state business as speedily as possible and then plunge into the presidential campaign.

If his gubernatorial duties permit, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to deliver his first campaign speech on the Pacific coast about the middle of August.

Awaits Answer

He had made tentative arrangements to attend the Olympic games early next month but he may be compelled to alter his plans if Mayor James J. Walker delays his answer to the removal charges filed by Samuel Seabury. Word has reached the Capitol however, that Walker's answer will be in the governor's hands shortly.

It is generally believed the governor will request the mayor to come to the Capitol later in the summer for a public hearing in the executive chamber.

Tammany Hall would not be surprised if the governor eventually removes Mayor Walker, according to reports reaching the executive.

Gunmen Planned Reynolds Death, Sheriff Is Told

North Carolina Sheriff Informed Through Letter New York Gunmen Killed Reynolds

BEGIN CHECKING ON MYSTERY NOTE

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright 1932 By International News Service)

WINSTON, Salem, N. C., July 19.—New York racketeers planned to "bump off" 20-year-old Zachary Smith Reynolds, according to information received by Sheriff Transou Scott investigating the murder of the heir of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions.

In a letter received by the sheriff from a man signing himself "Captain Gene Muzur", dated New York, the sheriff was told that a "mob" planned more than a year ago to kill young Reynolds.

The sheriff disclosed to International News Service that he had asked the New York police to check up on this information. The northern authorities checked upon a telephone number given by the informant and reported to the sheriff that there was no such number.

The theory that a hired gunman figured in the mysterious shooting of Reynolds on his sleeping porch after a gay party is among many being considered by the sheriff.

County Commissioners Inspect Work Being Done In Mahoning Township

County commissioners were at Edenburg Monday where they were conferring with Milo Paden, one of the road supervisors of Mahoning township, over road work being done in Mahoning township. The supervisors have an arrangement with the county commissioners, by which persons who are receiving aid from the county, are employed on the township roads.

The township gives them a small amount of cash in addition to the orders which are issued by the county poor department. Mahoning supervisors are very well pleased with the work that is being done. They have found the men ready and willing to render service for the help that is being given. The township will be able to get a large amount of work done, at a very little cash outlay.

Commissioners are also having some work done to the abutments at McConnell's Mills bridge.

Hugh M. Miller Likes Duties On U. S. S. Talbot

Writes An Interesting Letter To Chief Boatswain's Mate F. R. Allison

Hugh M. Miller, who enlisted in the navy through Chief Boatswain's Mate F. R. Allison in charge of the naval recruiting service here, has just written an interesting letter to the latter on his work on a United States destroyer. He is thoroughly enjoying the service.

His letter follows:—

U. S. S. Talbot (114)
San Diego, Cal.

Dear Mr. Allison:—

Hello Chief, it has been quite a while since I've seen you. I thought I would drop you a line letting you know what my address is. I am on the U. S. S. Talbot, a destroyer. I came aboard June 30 and have been at sea every day since that time, except on the Fourth of July. Right now we are anchored about eight miles off the coast of Mexico.

There are four other ships here beside us. We are having depth charge practice. It is quite a trick to walk on these ships, when they are making thirty knots as they do everything but turn somersaults. However, the chow is good and we have a great bunch of shipmates and officers.

This destroyer duty has its drawback but it makes up for them in many ways. We travel more than the rest of the fleet. Also there is not as much work to do as we are quite a bit smaller than any other ship. I will close now, wishing you luck and hoping to hear from you soon.

Your friend,
HUGH M. MILLER.

New Campers At Rentz Camp Today

Homer Rosser Is Assisting In Y. M. C. A. Camp During Week

"Dont forget to call me up," "See you at the 'Y' Saturday," and many "So longs" were the hasty salutations of many boys at the Rentz "Y" camp as they prepared for the trip back to town. 'You sure get to know real fellows and know them well at "Y" camp, said one camper who had just completed his two weeks as well as his first year at camp. Today, marks the closing of the second week at the camp and the end of a most interesting and educational experience for many young lads of New Castle.

New Campers Come Today

Although many of the first and second period campers were leaving, in town, a large group of older boys were making ready for their trip to the camp. Many of these boys are old campers and have attended the Association camp for five or six years. By eleven o'clock most of these campers had arrived and the third period at the Fred L. Rentz Y. M. C. A. camp was under way. Camp Director William A. Thomas again assigned the boys to their tents. Tent leaders will be chosen tomorrow as well as athletic teams.

This week Homer Rosser will be out at the camp assisting with athletics and other camp activities. Henry MacNicholas, director of physical activities at the camp will draw up a schedule for the athletic teams the results of which will be printed later. Activities this period will be a little more strenuous since the boys are older and demand a more active program than the younger lads.

Asks Speeding Of Relief Work

Senator Wagner Urges R. F. C. To Get Active On Distributing Fund

MEASURE WILL BE SIGNED BY HOOVER

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Declaring that nearly 2,000,000 persons can be provided with jobs under the $2,122,000,000 jobless relief bill, Sen. Wagner (D) of New York, senate leader in the fight, today called on the reconstruction finance corporation to speed distribution of the vast fund.

The measure was on President Hoover's desk for signature today. Already demands for funds under the bill are before the reconstruction finance corporation.

To Improve Conditions.

With officials promising sympathetic administration of the act, Wagner expressed belief that conditions throughout the country can be materially improved if the money is put to work at once.

Nearly $1,800,000,000 of the fund is provided to finance projects which will employ labor, including highways, rivers and harbors, slum removal housing projects, bridges, tunnels, docks and similar works.

Under the terms of the measure, funds will be loaned to states, cities and other political subdivisions public corporations and limited dividend housing corporations, for projects which will pay for themselves.

Mouse Fails To Frighten Nurse

Mouse Caught In Waste Paper Basket At City Hall Is Unfortunate

Mice mean little in the life of a nurse, judging from what occurred on the third floor of the city building and if indications count one mouse is sleeping forever.

It appears that when third floor, city hall clerks arrived at their offices today one of them heard a squeaking in a wastepaper basket and upon investigation——

She discovered a mouse!

Practically all women are afraid of mice and this particular woman happens to be one of those who are wary of mice and she promptly uttered an alarm.

She didn't scream and she didn't faint but she visited different offices and related the tale of a "bold, bad mouse in a waste paper basket."

When she reached the city health bureau and told the story to Miss Mary Bryan, the municipal nurse, the latter smiled then said: "Let us see what we can do for the 'mousie.'"

First she got a nice large piece of cotton then a can of chloroform and walked immediately to the office wherein the mouse romped, supposedly in safety.

She found the basket then espied the mouse.

And this is what she did:

She reached one hand holding the cotton into the basket, then poured some chloroform on the cotton.

The fumes of the anaesthetic spread through the basket and within a few seconds the mouse thought Jack Sharkey had handed it a knockout on the snoot.

It toppled o'er and several hours later was still on its back and indications are that the municipal hall janitor, John Anderson will have to play undertaker to the mouse sometime today.

Vets Stampede In Trek For Homes

3,000 Disobey Washington Leaders; Get Free Transportation

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Retreat of the bonus expeditionary force from Washington became a stampede late Monday.

Their leaders, trying in vain to discourage the exodus, 3,056 of the tattered and hungry men had applied to the Veterans Bureau for railroad transportation home at 6 o'clock and 2,478 applications had been granted.

Walter W. Waters and Roy Robertson, leaders of the rival factions, pleaded with them to remain until Congress is either called in extra session or meets again in December. Their pleas fell, for the most part, on the ears of men longing for home.

With Congress adjourned and their hopes for immediate bonus payment shattered, hundreds of the marchers gathered at the Veterans Bureau last night and stood in line until the office opened.

Jadick Defeats Tony Canzoneri

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 19.—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, left for New York today without any comment on the decision in his ten-round bout with Johnny Jadick at the Phillies ball park.

Canzoneri, who lost the junior welterweight title to Jadick just six months ago, seemed to have the bout in his lap but the decision went the other way.

Tom Walsh, of Scranton, and Stuart Robinson, of Pittsburgh, were the judges. Joe McGuigan refereed. The commission would not announce how the trio voted.

Canzoneri took at least six rounds, Jadick one, and three were even.

Canzoneri's left eye was reddened but he finished strong. He scored effectively with his rights and lefts to the body while Jadick jabbed most of the time. In the eighth round Jadick wrestled Canzoneri out of the ring. After that they slugged with abandon.

As soon as the decision was announced to the crowd of 8,000 a shower of baseball cushions and papers started into the ring, both fighters and officials being hit.

ROLLING ROCK KILLS LEGION PUBLISHER

Head Of Monthly Dies As He Rests In Climbing Colorado Mountain

ESTES PARK, Colorado, July 19.—Robert F. Smith, 41, of Indianapolis, general manager of the American Legion Publishing Co., was killed while mountain climbing Monday when a stone rolling down the north slope of Longs Peak struck him in the head.

Smith was in a party of seven that included his wife, four other women and a man companion.

How the rock was dislodged is not known. None of the other members of the party were injured.

The party left Bear Lake Lodge at 4 a. m., for the ascent of Longs Peak, considered a dangerous trip. Half way between the lodge and a shelter house used by the forest rangers, Smith stopped for a rest. The rock catapulting down the mountainside, struck him on top of the head.

Members of the party said the stone that killed Smith was about the size of a man's fist.

Sixty-six persons climbed Long's Peak today and 87 made the ascent yesterday. Weather conditions over the trail were reported ideal.

Casey Will Not Be Olympic Man

Levi Casey, Los Angeles, Eliminated From Position In Hop, Step And Jump Event

(International News Service)

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 19.—The American Olympic committee has eliminated Levi Casey, Los Angeles Athletic club athlete, from a position he won in Saturday's trials on the United States Olympic team.

"For reasons best known to the athlete," was the official statement relative to Casey's removal from America's list. Sol Furth, Millrose Athletic club hop, step and jump star, was substituted in Casey's place.

The action followed a late meeting of the American Olympic track and field committee, when the names were submitted of athletes who finished among the first three in each event of the final trials. Casey's name did not appear on the official list and that of Furth's did.

Coach Boyd Comstock, asking Frederick W. Rubien of the A. A. U. for an explanation, was told that the issue was closed.

Casey was winner of second place in the 1928 Olympic games hop, step and jump. He was national champion in 1930 and finished third in Saturday's trials to Sidney Bowman and Roland Romero.

Casey said he knew of only two possible circumstances which might have led to the action of displacing him:

1—The fact that he had borrowed $200 from the American Olympic committee previous to the 1928 Olympic games to help defray expenses of Mrs. Casey who was left at home while he competed at Amsterdam.

2—That he had been informed a report had been made against him following an innocent prank and celebration on his part and the part of other Olympic games athletes on the 1928 trip, this report going to the American Olympic committee of that time.

ATHLETICS ADVANCE INTO SECOND PLACE

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 19.—Physicians who examined Babe Ruth's injured right leg today reported the Bambino will be out of the Yankee lineup for possibly three weeks.

The Babe's leg crumbled as he gathered in a long fly while the Yanks were dumping the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 4.

Tony Freitas got credit for the pitching victory as the Athletics beat the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 1, and moved into second place, nine games behind New York.

Smead Jolley cracked a couple of doubles that spelled a 4 to 2 win for Boston's Sox over Cleveland.

Pirates Defeated

Although hit hard, Collins' relieving Elliott, staggered to an 11-inning win 5 to 4 for the Phillies over Pittsburgh.

Joe Shaute gave St. Louis only seven safeties and Wright made three hits behind him to feature Brooklyn's 7 to 4 repulse of St. Louis.

Effective pitching by Herman Bell and errors by the Cubs gave the new Giants a 13 to 3 count over Chicago.

Four hits by Stone helped Detroit lambast Washington 8 to 6. Bridges and Uhle decisioned Crowder of the Senators, the Tigers annexing the second tilt, 2 to 1.

Stock Market Remains Firm

Prices Show Improvement In Second Hour's Trading

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—The stock market dug in today after yesterday's reaction, and after further irregularity in the early dealings, staged a modest improvement at the end of the first hour.

Auburn ran up about a point while leaders like U. S. Steel and American Can were firm. Tobacco issues were better under the leadership of American Tobacco B.

American Telephone overcome early sluggishness but failed to do much on the upside. Dupont went to a new record low, continuing to reflect yesterday's poor second quarter earnings report, but recovered. A better tone in Wheat helped Case Threshing after an early set back.

Oils were dull and rails firmed up. Mining shares were neglected. Sugar shares advanced with the rise in the commidity. Staple prices generally were better after yesterday's weakness helping sentiment as did a further rise in bond prices.

Price movements in the market were narrow and trading continued at an extremely slow pace.

Prices continued to improve in the second hour with the rails displaying further strength and Auburn extending its advance nearly 3 points.

Real Stars for Reel Gridiron

Happiness Under Difficulties

Complaining about your lot, are you? Just take a glance at these fellows and life may seem a bit brighter. They are convict inmates of the new prison camp at Raiford, Fla., and were recently transferred there from Sunbeam Camp where Arthur Maillefert, 22-year-old convict, died in a "sweat box" while undergoing punishment. Despite the hardships these prisoners haven't forgotten how to smile.

Weekly Health Talk

"Self-confidence is happily one of the prominent factors in American life. Coupled with initiative and energy, it has largely been responsible for the many magnificent attainments that can pridefully be credited to our country. But it perhaps is well to keep at least a portion of this confidence within proper limits. And this injunction can not be more reasonably applied than to the diagnosis and treatment of disease," states Doctor Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health.

"It is a surprising but nevertheless a too general fact that self-confidence, which weakens before a law suit, a public speech, the handling of investments, the building of houses and other specialized activities, is prone to become surprisingly strong where diagnosis and treatment of disease are concerned.

"The city of this attitude lies in the serious illnesses and deaths that frequently result as a cause of it. While the matter of course does not lend itself to accurate statistics, it has nevertheless been estimated that of the major killers such as cancer, tuberculosis, diabetis and heart conditions, many hundreds of victims die prematurely because of carelessness and lack of early diagnosis. Many of such cases would have undoubtedly received professional attention long before they did had it not been for this self-treating complex.

"It is indeed difficult to understand why the average individual who delegates his other affairs of importance to trained specialists, somehow imagines that he is perfectly capable of diagnosing what is wrong with his highly complicated body and of dictating the drugs and procedure to make it well again.

"Like other specialists, whether they be lawyers, automobile mechanics, carpenters or whatnot, time money and experience enter largely into the value of their services. To offset against a college course, a four year medical training, a hospital interneship and perhaps a decade of practical experience in healing the sick—to offset all that with a self-measured conceit of one's ability to treat himself, is a folly that is both expensive and foolish. It can lead to serious, even fatal results."

Issue Statement On Delinquent Tax Collections

Finance Committees Issue Statement After Meeting Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, July 19.—Another meeting was held by the Finance Committees of the Borough Council and Board of Education of Ellwood City for the purpose of settling the present delinquent tax muddle. There have been previous statements from the above committees and the tax collector, T. A. E. McConahy, regarding this problem. The meeting last night was held in the borough building in which the following statement was made by G. H. Morrison, chairman of the Borough Council's finance committee.

Mr. Dooley, a creation of Peter F. Dunne, had and made use of a favorite expression in beginning his monologues. "I see by the paper's he said: so, in beginning this statement the chairman of the finance committee of the Borough Council, made use of the above expression and proceeded:

"Mr. McConaghy, the tax collector, in his statement in our valuable paper of Saturday last certainly attempts to befog the issue as far as the council is concerned, in that he says—"All I am doing is following out the instructions of city officials and the board of education—and my attorney"—but of this more will be said later.

As to liens, Mr. McConaghy was instructed to not file liens with the county commissioners for good and sufficient reasons, which were explained to him.

The whole tax proposition at this time is based on the law which requires a settlement between the tax collector and the taxing bodies annually, and Mr. McConaghy is not prepared to make that settlement either by having collected the taxes or making payment himself of the uncollected portion, or turning the uncollected portion of the duplicate to the taxing bodies so that liens may be filed by them against the delinquent properties.

If the taxes on property are unpaid because of the inability of the property owner to provide the money to pay the tax, and the economic situation being such that inability will continue for an indefinite time, the taxing bodies feel that it were better to file liens than to sue for the taxes at this time since it would save the property seized for taxes now. It appears that, if liens are filed by the taxing bodies (the board of education and the council) the interest in those taxes by the tax collector ceases and the money accrueing by reason of the satisfaction of the liens, is payable directly to the borough and the board of education, and no part thereof is payable as a commission to the tax collector, and this is the moot point. As Mr. McConaghy says, "If I had been allowed my commission I would have been perfectly willing to allow them (the borough and school officials) to file on all taxes and give the people a chance to recover".—"Under the law the tax collector is permitted to issue a warrant and file suit to collect personal taxes—and to file liens."

That is true but the warrants we have seen have been for property taxes, and the persons who have shown us these warrants are not in our opinion tax evaders, and up to this time we have seen no warrants for delinquent personal taxes. Mr. McConaghy was asked by the taxing bodies on July 11th, 1932 to issue warrants for evaders of personal taxes, and his answer was the issue of warrants for (alleged) property tax evaders. If Mr. McConaghy's previous statement is studied, it may easily be seen that the commission is the point at issue with him. Every person in this community has suffered a reduction in income—labor, business, manufacturing, transportation, what you will, but there shall be no reduction in commission on taxes, Mr. McConaghy is determined on it.

ELLWOOD CITY, July 19.—Most commendable work has been done by students of the Industrial Arts Department of the local high school is the report of instructor R. J. Hawke who has been in charge here for the past five years. Mr. Hawke presented his report to the school board at its last meeting.

The student elections for shop and mechanical drawing have increased this year over what it has been before because many students were in school who normally would be working. The shop was catering to almost 400 boys with a slightly smaller number in the drawing room. Very acceptable work was turned out in both departments. The exhibit held on the annual open night was very well attended and much satisfaction was shown in the work done.

Much savings has been experienced by the school board because of this department where the students have done all types of work for experience. The drawing classes as before successfully took care of any demands made upon it. Services rendered by the wood, sheet metal, machine and electrical shops was indispensible. The shop has taken care of demands from class plays, the athletic department, the teachers, and the science department.

Cement Company Head Is Against Work Reduction

Crescent Portland Cement Company President Says Public Work Should Go On

The officers of the Beaver-Mahoning-Shenango Rivers Improvement association are in receipt of a communication from J. B. John, president, the Medusa-Portland Cement company, who is a strong supporter of the tri-rivers improvement, and who feels that a needed reduction in government operation costs should not result in the elimination of money saving or money earning improvements.

"Cut waste, not public works," he writes. "Too often the so-called economies made by our governing bodies represent nothing but curtailed public construction. In many cases, the improvements halted would save taxpayers enough money to pay for themselves within a few years, or would bring in enough income to amortize a bond issue for construction. Stopping such work does not result in any ultimate saving to taxpayers and serves only to obscure the real issue—that of eliminating wasteful and unnecessary expenditures of government.

"All governing bodies should eliminate graft, waste, duplication of effort, unnecessary services and those which individuals and various agencies should perform for themselves," he continued. "But for those which have capital or can borrow it readily this is an extremely favorable time to make wise capital investments. Many cities need extensions of water supply or sewerage systems. In some, pavements are in shocking condition and cause high transportation costs. In others, school facilities are far behind demand.

"Now, when employment is badly needed and when building costs are lower than in a decade, is an ideal time to provide these needed facilities," Mr. John concluded.

This company controls the large cement industry located at Wampum, Pa., on the Beaver river, the Crescent Portland Cement firm.

Animal Exhibit At Camp Phillips

Boy Scouts See State Exhibit—Other Features At Scout Camp

(Special To The News)

CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS—Scouts spending a peaceful vacation at Camp Phillips were suddenly pursued by wild animals Monday morning, but the animals were in cages and the pursuing was done by the State Game Commission truck which brought them to camp. The exhibition includes two bears, a fawn, two ground hogs, four racoons, and two foxes. The animals are taken care of by Harry Van Cleve and D. L. Batcheler. The exhibition travels from scout camp to scout camp during the month of July only. The scouts formed an interesting audience throughout the day.

West Pittsburg troop seems to have stepped into the shoes of N. C. Troop 17 by winning the inspection banner for the second time in the two days they have been in camp. The rest of the camp does not wish them anymore luck.

The swimming hole, the boats, the tennis courts and the store were the most popular places in camp today. Swimming, boating, and ice cream because it was hot. The tennis court to learn a new serve invented by Bob Miner, one of the Village. Although not very effective as a scoring ace, the new serve is said to abound in grace.

An old custom of the camp, singing after mess, was started again today. The scouts are learning the songs of colleges from all over the United States. When they get to singing Northwestern University's Wildcat song a visitor would swear he was lost in a western forest at night.

Monday was an animal day. At campfire after seeing animals all day, the scouts sang animal songs, "the Animal Fair" and others. Then came more animals. Mr. Van Cleve, one of the game commission men, entertained the fellows with t-a-l-e-s of animals. Instead of scout camp it should be recristened animal kingdom.

The new camp roster for the period beginning July 16 follows: McConnell Cabin: Sid Smith, Al Stump, Sandy Howard, Jack Hainsworth, Harry Volant; Office: Leroy Norton and Gordon Welch; Lions Hut: Joe Bowater, Jim Dean, Bill Dean, Myron Gelbach, Tom Douds, and Joe Wilson; Circle: Gillis Falls, Paul Means, Harry Thacker, Willis Raney, and Jack Ligo; Kiwanis: Bud Coss, Ed Harper, Bill Davidson, Frank Elverson, Steve Griffith, Bill Stein; Volant: George Marquis, Cliff Mathis, John Mathis, Bob Moore, Ed McCreary, and George Horton; Goehring: Alexander, "Radio" Hazen, Bob Penman, Frank Robertson, Lawrence Bennett, Dick Wallace, Dick Stevenson; Martin: Paul Bartel, Jack Gelbach, Jack Hough, Kenneth Freed, John Travers, Bob Young; Poister: Bob Snodgrass, Steve Koss, Nick Bannan, Ovid Buchanan, Herman Neumeyer, Wilfred Aloe; Indian Village: Bud McCamic, Dick Hamilton, Joe Lloyd, Bob Miner and Bill Shira.

Two new K. P's arrived in camp today and initiated the camp at dinner. They are Dave Evans and Harry Falls, both of N. C. troop 1.

Other scouts of Rotary 1, Harold Dunn, Marty Dunn, Kenny Evans, and Walter Evans, began some practical camping on the grounds, doing their own cooking and planning. Herman Kitchen and Walter Conover of N. C. 15, are doing the same.

The first scout emblem of the year was awarded tonight at colors to Frank Robertson of Yatesboro. Working for an emblem is not compulsory. If the boy comes to camp to have fun by playing it is all right but if he comes to camp to gain in camping he is well repaid with honors. Frank came to fish but even if he doesn't catch any fish, which he hasn't yet, he has caught an emblem.
